Russians Launch Lunar Probe, Show Rockets In V-E Day Fete

'BREZHNEV BLOCKBUSTER'. A huge Soviet intercontinental ballistic missile rolls through Red Square in Moscow during Victory Day celebration Sunday in Moscow. The 120-foot, three-stage missile, called the "Brezhnev Blockbuster" by Western observers, is reported to be powered by solid fuels with a thrust of more than a million pounds. (UPI Telephoto)

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union celebrated the 20th anniversary of V-E day Sunday with a new moon shot, a military display, an appeal for renunciation of nuclear weapons and a new attack on U.S. policy.

The moon shot, Lunik 5, was a 3,254-pound electronic instrument package to gather and send back scientific information. The Soviet news agency Tass said it was launched from an artificial earth satellite put into orbit earlier in the day by a multistage rocket.

The exact time or place of the launching was not announced, but it presumably took place about the hour the Kremlin gave its first public display of the kind of rockets that have carried its manned space ships into orbit.

Tass said Lunik 5 was equipped with "measuring devices" but did not say what kind of information it would send back from its 250,000-mile journey.

Tass said the rocket at 10 p.m. Sunday was 70,000 miles from the earth and was close to its planned course.

There was no indication of any attempt to radio back photographs of the moon's surface. An earlier Lunik had photographed the dark side of the moon. There was no indication whether the rocket would hit the moon or go into orbit around it.

The U.S. Ranger 9, an 809-pound electronic package crammed with television cameras, sent back more than 5,000 pictures of the lunar surface before crashing into a moon crater March 24.

The Soviet display came during a military parade in Red Square. Soviet leaders and thousands of Muscovites saw in an 18-minute weapons show a pair of 110-foot, 3-stage rockets and four other weapons never seen in public before.

Tass said the giant rockets were solid-fueled and that their range was "unlimited." The agency added "they are similar" to the rockets that launched the Vostok and Voshkod manned space ships.

Western observers were skeptical of the claim that the rockets were solid-fueled. They noted that some exterior features were similar to those on liquid-fueled rockets used in the U.S. space program.

Marshal Georgi Zhukov, one of the Soviet Union's top World War II commanders, appeared among the Soviet leaders. It was his first appearance at a

U.S., Viet Planes Pound Bridges, Roads In North

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — American and Vietnamese warplanes began pounding military targets in North Viet Nam at midnight and continued the aerial hammering through the day.

Returning pilots reported destruction of bridges, highway and railroad vehicles, military emplacements and one large junk.

A U.S. spokesman said the planes encountered light to moderate groundfire but that all planes returned safely without sighting enemy aircraft.

One Navy jet pilot was killed Sunday when his plane failed to pull out of a strafing dive on a truck during raids on North Viet Nam.

Two American soldiers were killed and eight wounded in a six-hour battle with the Viet Cong 30 miles west of Saigon. It was one of several attacks during the weekend in the Mekong River delta.

Navy aircraft from the carriers Coral Sea and Midway began the day's attacks, dropping 12½ tons of bombs. They reported damaging four bridges, four trucks, one large junk and one roadgrader.

U.S. Air Force F105s and F100s took to the air at noon and in a "highly successful" raid dropped a span of the Ha Tinh Bridge on north - south Route 1, 150 miles south of Hanoi, dropped a span of a bridge nearby and then destroyed the Tho Hgoa Bridge, south of Ha Tinh.

At the same time, 16 F105s cruised over highway routes, destroying one truck, three boxcars near Route 1 and three small bridges.

Vietnamese Skyraiders concentrated on bridge targets.

In the Mekong delta fighting, the Viet Cong inflicted heavy casualties on the Catholic refugee settlement of Hai Yen. Then, early today, they attacked a nearby outpost and threw mortar fire on the town. Three Vietnamese soldiers and seven civilians, including five children, were reported wounded.

Heavier casualties were suffered in a Viet Cong attack on an outpost 45 miles southwest of Saigon early today. Thirteen defenders were killed, 7 wounded and 4 captured.

The battle west of Saigon began early Sunday when a Communist mortar barrage descended on the capital of Hau Nghia Province.

The first of the Americans to die and one of the American wounded were advisers sent in by helicopter with a government relief force.

Sunday evening, a bullet hit another U.S. Army adviser in the face, killing him. Two advisers were wounded and three U.S. Army helicopter crewmen were lightly wounded.

America's toll of combat dead stood at 366.

The operation had cost the South Vietnamese 20 dead, 53 wounded and 10 missing at last report. No information was available on Viet Cong casualties.

A 29-year-old Columbiana area woman was killed late this morning when her car struck the side of a tractor - trailer on Route 7 at the Mahoning County line and she was thrown under the wheels of a following rig.

Nancy L. Finley of Columbiana R. D. 2 was probably killed outright, according to the Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon.

Officers said she drove her 1958 coupe from County Line Rd. onto Route 7, striking the dual rear wheels of a tractor - trailer rig headed south and driven by James Traficant, 56, of Canfield R. D. 3.

She was thrown out by the impact, and landed in front of a following outfit driven by Oscar Kaufman, 21, of Grove City, Pa.

The patrol said the woman was pinned beneath the second rig for about a half hour before her body could be extricated.

Officer said an infant in the car with the woman escaped injury.

Dr. William A. Kolozsi, Columbiana County Coroner, said the mishap occurred just south of the Mahoning County line, making it the tenth road fatality in the county so far this year.

Mrs. Finley, a housewife, and her husband, George Finley who works at Columbiana, formerly resided at Rogers, authorities said.

Victim Recovered Near Location Of Tragedy Tuesday

The body of Miss Brenda Joy Kernaich, 18, of 1620 St. George St., who was drowned Tuesday afternoon when she attempted to retrieve an oar that fell out of a rowboat, was recovered from the Ohio River Sunday at 7:40 a. m., ending a search that had gone on nearly five days.

The body was found at a point about 300 yards upstream from the T. K. Roofing Co. plant in Chester and 25 feet from the center of the stream—the distance of about a city block from the spot where Miss Kerniach drowned — the rescuers reported.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kernaich, the girl leaped into the river to recover an oar which had come loose from its lock as she rowed the boat containing two companions, according to police reports. She retrieved the oar and pushed it toward the boat. But she was caught by the current and swept under, although her companions attempted to throw her a rope.

Miss Kerniach was accompanied by two friends, Mrs. Dixie Lee Sell, 22, and Penny Mikeals, 16, both of 1669 Ohio Ave.

Recovery of the body was reported to Police Chief Harold Davis of Chester as well as to East Liverpool police.

Alvin (Pete) Arner Jr. of the Chester Arner Funeral Chapel obtained a boat at the East Liverpool Yacht Club docks in Chester and went upstream to the site where the body was recovered. It was returned to the Yacht Club docks and then taken to the Arner Chapel.

After the body had been identified formally by relatives, Squire John Herron of New Cumberland, Hancock County corner, conducted an investigation assisted by Hancock County sheriff's deputies.

Rusk Urges Action

U.S. Seeks Latin Emergency Units

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk has urged the American states to consider setting up standby military-political machinery which could tackle emergencies quickly pending more formal action by hemisphere governments.

Rusk also denied in an Associated Press interview that the United States had reverted to the gunboat diplomacy of earlier years when it rushed troops into Santo Domingo.

With local authorities unable to protect foreign nationals and asking for U.S. aid, he said, the United States had a well-recognized obligation to do what was needed to save American lives.

"Recent U.S. actions in the Dominican Republic have had nothing to do with 19th century forms of intervention for the purpose of collecting revenues, protecting concessions or changing governments," he said.

"We went in to save lives. We are there in support of the Organization of American States and inter-American system."

In other weekend U.S-Dominican developments:

—An official document said members of the inter-American peace mission to the Dominican Republic were told by rebel leader Col. Francisco Caamano Deno that Communists had infiltrated but do not control his movement.

—Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey said in a radio-television broadcast with Rep. Frank Horton, R-N.Y., that "we have to be prepared for some time in the future to have the Communist forces in the world test us every place where there is any weakness or any possibility of success."

—Jack H. Vaughn, assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs, also predicted fresh troubles ahead and said the Communists have a priority list of Latin-American governments that they hope to subvert and overthrow. He named no nations. Vaughn appeared on a taped television interview with Rep. Hale Boggs, D-La.

$4,000 Loss Seen In Fire At Wellsville

'Missing' Owner Found Downtown Following Blaze

Fire today completely leveled the home of George A. Sims of 25th St. Heights, Wellsville.

It was feared for a time that Sims, who is disabled and must use crutches, had perished in the flames, but he was found in the downtown area of Wellsville. The loss is expected to exceed $4,000.

Neighbors discovered the blaze and notified the Wellsville volunteer department at 8:45 a. m.

The six room, one and a half story frame home was completely engulfed in flames when firemen arrived. More than half the roof was in flames.

As Sims could not be found, firemen attempted to enter the house. The front door was locked from the inside and when they tried to push it in, they were driven back by the intense heat.

Later, a search was started of the ruins but it was discovered that Sims had gone to town earlier in the morning.

Dave Lanam, volunteer captain, said the cause is not known. He said the Highlandtown volunteers were called to provide additional water.

There was insurance on the home, but none on the contents.

Firemen were on the scene until 10:25. Eleven answered the alarm.

Order Also Allows Similar Statements From 2,000 Others

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has ordered 200 top government officials — including Cabinet members — to file statements of their financial interests with the Civil Service Commission.

An executive order issued Sunday also gave the Civil Service Commission authority to require similar statements from 2,000 lesser officials. These would be filed with the heads of their agencies.

The seven-page executive order which superseded several existing directives, set strict standards for 2.5 million civil servants limiting acceptance of gifts, entertainment and favors by executive branch personnel.

All statements will be kept confidential and not made public. The Civil Service Commissioner or the head of a department or agency, however, will make available to the President any information they feel he should have.

The order was the first directing the filing of statements by presidential appointees. Some congressional committees have asked for such information in connection with confirmation of nominees.

The order does not apply to Johnson but one official said he expects the President to file a statement because "I am confident it is his intention to do everything that is required of any other employe."

The financial reporting requirements will apply to key members of Johnson's staff. They will decide whether their subordinates should file statements.

Both Face Charges

2 Motorists Hurt In City Collisions

Two motorists were injured and both were cited by police as an aftermath of traffic crashes early Sunday on Dresden Ave. and Pennsylvania Ave.

Edward L. King, 28, of 912 Watson Ave. was charged with driving while under the influence of alcohol following a collision Sunday at 3:41 a. m. on Dresden Ave. in which his auto went out of control and struck a utility pole and a tree.

King, who suffered a deep laceration of the scalp, was in "fair" condition today at City Hospital.

His 1960 model car was termed a total loss after the crash. Patrolmen Jack Strobel and David Mumaw said their investigation still is pending because they could not get a statement from the driver.

THE OFFICERS' report indicated the car went off the right side of the street, first hitting the utility pole and then glancing off and striking the tree.

King will be given a hearing in Municipal Court after he is released from the hospital.

Clyde E. Samples, 30, of 424 Indiana Ave., Chester, was charged with reckless driving after a collision on Pennsylvania Ave. at Maryland Ave. Sunday at 1:31 a. m. in which his 1963 model two - door sedan struck a parked auto and shoved it forward into another, police reported.

Order Also Allows Similar Statements From 2,000 Others

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has ordered 200 top government officials — including Cabinet members — to file statements of their financial interests with the Civil Service Commission.

An executive order issued Sunday also gave the Civil Service Commission authority to require similar statements from 2,000 lesser officials. These would be filed with the heads of their agencies.

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — The Dominican rebels have rejected a surrender invitation from the new military-civilian junta with a reply that they have the morale and manpower to withstand attack.

Col. Francisco Caamano Deno, the rebel chieftain, issued this reply from his headquarters in the rebel-held southeast portion of Santo Domingo:

"We have defeated their best troops and the best from the national police force. Do they think that with reserves from the interior they will be able to defeat a people whose morale is higher than it ever was?"

The rebels are hemmed in by the L-shaped zone occupied by U.S. troops, and have their backs to the Caribbean Sea.

Mahoning Probes 2 Auto Fatalities

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—Police and the coroner are investigating the circumstances in the deaths of two men who were involved in traffic accidents over the weekend.

Albert Riley, 53, whose daughter, Julene, was married Saturday, suffered apparently minor injuries in an accident Saturday night. He was treated for a lacerated lip and released at St. Elizabeth Hospital.

But he became ill Sunday and was returned to the hospital, where he died.

Joseph Sharkey, 68, died Saturday night. A 32-year-old man told police he felt his car strike an object on a South Side street, and when he got out of the car he found Sharkey lying in the street.

The coroner, Dr. David A. Belinky, ruled it a traffic fatality, but police were investigating to see whether Sharkey was hit by another car first.

Another traffic victim was 13-year-old Clarence Smith Jr., who was hit by a car Friday in Boardman, where he lived. He died Sunday in South Side hospital.

Doctors Weigh Refusal To Treat Under Medicare

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio State Medical Association is considering a proposal urging doctors to refuse to provide treatment under the proposed federal Medicare program.

The estimated 3,500 doctors attending the organizations annual convention voted Sunday to accept for consideration a resolution calling for the action. The resolution comes up for final vote Tuesday.

If adopted, the resolution also would direct Ohio delegates to present a similar resolution to the American Medical Association convention in June.

The resolution says a physician cannot serve the best interests of his patient "under a third party program that intrudes into the physician-patient relationship and interfers with medical judgement as to diagnosis and treatment."

The convention began Sunday and continues through Friday. It features numerous exhibits and scientific discussions and special programs on cancer and heart disease.

Dr. Henry A. Crawford of Cleveland will be installed Tuesday as president of the association to succeed Dr. Robert E. Tschantz of Canton.

Briton Sentenced For Selling Reds Missile Secrets

LONDON (AP) — Britain's central criminal court sentenced a 52-year-old engineer in the Aviation Ministry to 21 years in prison today for selling British guided - missile secrets to the Russians.

Frank C. Bossard pleaded guilty in the Old Bailey Court to five charges under the Official Secrets Act. He was liable to a maximum sentence of 70 years, 14 years on each count.

Sir Frederick Elwyn Jones, the attorney general, said Bossard had signed a confession claiming the Russians paid him only $14,000 from 1961 until he was arrested March 15 by special intelligence agents in a London hotel.

At the time of his arrest, Bossard was making $7,000 a year as an official in the Aviation Ministry's guided-weapons division.

Sir Frederick said Bossard, a former attache at the British Embassy in Bonn, claimed he was approached in a London bar in 1961 by a man representing himself as a Soviet Embassy official. The man suggested he could help Bossard financially in return for intelligence information and other meetings were arranged.

Bossard said his usual method was to select guided-weapons files at his office and then "take them to a hotel room and photograph suitable extracts during my lunch period."

It takes about 45 seconds for the blood in one's body to make the complete circuit from the heart throughout the body, and back.

Doctors Weigh Refusal To Treat Under Medicare

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio State Medical Association is considering a proposal urging doctors to refuse to provide treatment under the proposed federal Medicare program.

The estimated 3,500 doctors attending the organizations annual convention voted Sunday to accept for consideration a resolution calling for the action. The resolution comes up for final vote Tuesday.

If adopted, the resolution also would direct Ohio delegates to present a similar resolution to the American Medical Association convention in June.

The resolution says a physician cannot serve the best interests of his patient "under a third party program that intrudes into the physician-patient relationship and interfers with medical judgement as to diagnosis and treatment."

The convention began Sunday and continues through Friday. It features numerous exhibits and scientific discussions and special programs on cancer and heart disease.

Dr. Henry A. Crawford of Cleveland will be installed Tuesday as president of the association to succeed Dr. Robert E. Tschantz of Canton.

Briton Sentenced For Selling Reds Missile Secrets

LONDON (AP) — Britain's central criminal court sentenced a 52-year-old engineer in the Aviation Ministry to 21 years in prison today for selling British guided - missile secrets to the Russians.

Frank C. Bossard pleaded guilty in the Old Bailey Court to five charges under the Official Secrets Act. He was liable to a maximum sentence of 70 years, 14 years on each count.

Sir Frederick Elwyn Jones, the attorney general, said Bossard had signed a confession claiming the Russians paid him only $14,000 from 1961 until he was arrested March 15 by special intelligence agents in a London hotel.

At the time of his arrest, Bossard was making $7,000 a year as an official in the Aviaton Ministry's guided-weapons division.

Sir Frederick said Bossard, a former attache at the British Embassy in Bonn, claimed he was approached in a London bar in 1961 by a man representing himself as a Soviet Embassy official. The man suggested he could help Bossard financially in return for intelligence information and other meetings were arranged.

Bossard said his usual method was to select guided-weapons files at his office and then "take them to a hotel room and photograph suitable extracts during my lunch period."

It takes about 45 seconds for the blood in one's body to make the complete circuit from the heart throughout the body, and back.

Back To Monroe Doctrine

When President Johnson declared on May 2 the United States would not stand for establishment of "another Communist phere," he revived the Monroe Doctrine.

It would be better to say he revived the spirit of the Monroe Doctrine. The doctrine, itself, has been a dubious international instrument.

But the spirit of the doctrine—that the Western Hemisphere shall be dominated by the New World and not subjected to the blood feuds and ideological infections of the Old World—has been and can be again a powerful point of view.

It was at issue in the Cuban missile crisis, when the United States learned that a potentially hostile government had strongly armed an offshore island and had dominated the island's government.

MANY U.S. citizens thought the Monroe Doctrine should have controlled policy in the Cuban crisis. They were shocked when Soviet Premier Khrushchev said he thought the doctrine had "outlived itself."

It is of historic interest that one of the prime reasons for the enunciation of the doctrine in 1823 was fear of Russian encroachment on the west coast of the United States. No one would have dreamed of encroachment in Cuba in 1823.

Perhaps a third of Dominican Republic industry is owned by Americans. The government controls another third. The republic is the third largest producer of sugar in the Western Hemisphere. It also has large deposits of bauxite ore, which have attacted the Aluminum Co. of America. The United Fruit Co. enjoys the island nation's tropical wealth.

SINCE THE overthrow of the Trujillo dictatorship, U.S. business interests through the Business Council for International Understanding have done a truly remarkable job of management counseling and assistance. American diplomats have advised Dominican officials patiently and intimately.

The United States committed itself to Dominican democracy in 1961 when we sent warships to within sight of Santo Domingo to influence reversal of an army takeover.

Shake Their Hand

It's National Police Week and the local department has arranged a varied program — including "open house" daily between 1 and 6 p.m. — as its part of the observance.

This is your chance to see how the department operates from the outside rather than the inside of a cell.

By coincidence, Jackie Gleason had a humorous takeoff Saturday night during his TV show on the thousands of persons who "are working for you" — firemen, schoolteachers, policemen and so on.

During the monologue, among his suggestions was one that you walk up to the first policeman you see, shake his hand with a "How are ya', buddy," and a rousing "Thanks for a job well done!"

Jackie, naturally, concluded with the thought that the flabbergasted "cop" probably would shake his head and throw you in jail with a startled, "That guy's a nut!"

The more we think about it, however, Jackie had a good idea. Why not take time this week to stop and let the police know that you do value their efforts.

We feel sure they won't think you're a nut. Rather, they can't help but appreciate your thoughtfulness and kindness.

It could help make this year's National Police Week one the officers will remember over all others.

World Changes Little Over The Years

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Do international problems really change very much in a half-century? Are the basic issues that inflame the passions of peoples around the globe any different now than they were five decades ago?

David Lawrence

Fifty years ago a submarine of the navy of the imperialist government of Germany torpedoed without warning the Lusitania, an unarmed merchant vessel of a British steamship company, and caused the death of 1,198 persons, of whom 124 were Americans.

The whole world stood aghast at this act of brutality. The European war had begun the year before, and the United States was carefully preserving its neutrality. Yet innocent citizens of this and other countries were wiped out in a few minutes.

The theory behind such sinkings was that they would discourage the shipment of supplies to Great Britain and France.

The action was in total disregard of international law and in defiance of warnings which the United States had issued to the belligerent powers not to endanger American lives and property on the high seas. To torpedo unarmed vessels without warning was contrary also to the accepted rules of civilized warfare.

MOST PERPLEXING of all was the problem which faced President Wilson. From Friday to Monday, no word came from the White House except that a protest note was being prepared. On Monday, May 10, however, Mr. Wilson made a speech in Philadelphia in which he conveyed an impression of restraint. Although he made no explicit mention of the Lusitania tragedy, many of his listeners believed that he was referring to the sinking of the ship when he said:

"The example of America must be a special example. The example of America must be the example not merely of peace because it will not fight, but of peace because peace is the healing and elevating influence of the world and strife is not.

"There is such a thing as a man being too proud to fight. There is such a thing as a nation being so right that it does not need to convince others by force that it is right."

These remarks caused a wave of protest inside the United States, although those who were on the pacifist side applauded enthusiastically but in the next few weeks, public opinion developed heavily in favor of the idea that the United States should take a firm and resolute position because the phrase "too proud to fight" had been misconstrued abroad.

CONSEQUENTLY, the second American note, which was sent on June 9 was so strong that the secretary of state, William Jennings Bryan, considered it too belligerent and resigned.

The net effect of the American stand, however, was to prevent a recurrence of such episodes as the sinking of the Lusitania.

President Wilson was re-elected in 1916 as many of his political supporters publicized the slogan: "He Kept Us Out of War."

But on Feb. 1, 1917, the Berlin government announced that it was resuming unrestricted submarine warfare against all neutral and belligerent shipping. The belief evidently prevailed in the German high command that the European war could be won by the Kaiser's forces before the United States could mobilize its troops and get them overseas to rescue the Western Allies.

President Wilson promptly broke diplomatic relations and asked Congress to give him authority to arm merchant ships in order to resist attacks but Congress got involved in a filibuster and debate, led mostly by the "liberals" of those times, and the session adjourned on its fixed date — March 4 — without granting the requested authority.

Mr. Wilson went ahead, anyhow, believing that he had the constitutional power without action by Congress. When American vessels were sunk, the President immediately asked Congress to declare war, and it did so on April 6, 1917 — not even six months after the 1916 election.

PRESIDENT WILSON made it clear that the United States was making war not against the German people but against its misguided rulers. Likewise, at the end of the conflict, Mr. Wilson sponsored the concept of a League of Nations as the only way to maintain peace in the world — by the cooperation of peoples.

Unfortunately, after the war was over, members of the United States Senate who were believers in isolationist doctrines prevented the United States from ratifying the first peace treaty which had contained a provision for the establishment of the League of Nations. Most of the other countries joined it anyhow, but in less than 10 years the League found itself powerless in the face of aggressive acts of autocracies, very much as the United Nations is floundering today.

The difficulty then, as now, concerns the inability of peoples to make their voices heard and to keep autocratic governments from threatening the peace of the world and from launching a war.

When people are really able to communicate with people, a time may come when misguided governments can be restrained from plunging their countries and the rest of the world into war.

'Those Poor Dominicans . . . Castro's Trying To Make Them As Happy As He's Made Us'

More Warnings To Follow?

Now that the Senate Commerce Committee has given unanimous approval to a proposal requiring health-hazard warnings on cigarette packages, it must be assumed more warnings will follow.

The proposal approved by the committee would make it illegal to sell or distribute within the United States cigarettes in a package that did not bear a label advising one and all that "cigarette smoking may be hazardous to your health."

On the reasonable assumption that no one, any time or any place ever said cigarette smoking was good for health, such a warning hardly could be called a sudden break-through in human knowledge.

In the sense that it merely would confirm what has been general information since cigarette smoking became popular in the first two decades of the 20th century, a health-hazard warning on cigarette packages would be a significant precedent.

It would signify that all things which might be health hazards should be so proclaimed. For instance, every new auto should bear a warning on the dashboard that it might be lethal.

All alcoholic beverages would be subject to the same kind of cautionary warning: The contents of this bottle might be a health hazard.

Overweight citizens would be entitled to know that starchy foods might be their undoing. Diabetics would be entitled to know that foodstuffs containing sugar could lead to unpleasant and possibly fatal consequences.

Even without getting into the wide range of substances not intended to be eaten but which sometimes are eaten, the list of potentially dangerous substances widely available to the public is all but endless. It will have to be assumed that if the public is to be protected against any one thing, it has a right to be protected against everything that might be a health hazard.

Kind Words

State Sen. Edmund Sargus, who has been somewhat stymied in his battle for a stronger strip mine bill, has been the subject of praise from one of his colleagues.

The complementary remarks come from Sen. Donald J. Pease of the 27th-29th District and were contained in his column in the Oberlin News - Tribune.

Mr. Pease called the St. Clairsville attorney, who represents the 20th-22nd District, which includes Columbiana County, "one of the finest legislators in Columbus" and declared "the public should be grateful to and cheer on the efforts of determined, courageous legislators like Ed Sargus."

Encouraging indeed. The comments should help Mr. Sargus continue his campaign against the strip mine lobbyists and the others who may rear their ugly heads from time to time as he joins in the legislative wars.

Stay Away!

Regardless of how often the appeal is made, thoughtless motorists continue to impede the efforts of firefighters on the way to a blaze.

It happened again last week during a small brush fire near Lisbon.

Three trucks headed for the scene. Only one got there. Cars following the first truck blocked the roads for the other two.

In this case, the interference didn't prove too costly. The next time it could.

Curiosity is an American characteristic and seldom does it come to the fore more than when the fire sirens sound. Try your best to curb it, however when the trucks roar by. If you don't, it's possible a dreadful tragedy could be on your conscience for a lifetime.

What's This Thing Called 'Consensus'?

By RAYMOND MOLEY

"Who Put The Con In Consensus?" is the title given this year to a satirical show produced annually by the Cleveland City Club. It will be the 52nd annual show. It's most remarkable that 51 of the scripts have been written by a beloved Clevelander, Judge Carl D. Friebolin. Age has not withered Freibolin's thought-provoking humor. He is 87.

The City Club's annual "Anvil Revue" is a sharp spoof about political affairs at all levels. Presumably the chief subject which will be hammered on this year will be the Johnson Great Society and the President's claim that his program represents a national "consensus."

I BORROW the title to examine this concept of "consensus" which LBJ uses as the justification of the huge program of domestic handouts which with ruthless abandon and little concern for consequences is being enacted into law by a slavishly obedient congressional majority.

When the President talks about having a "consensus" for what he wants, he is assuming that the large majority he received in November justifies the use of the expression.

He assumes that a consensus is something that can be identified on mathematical grounds. This, I hope to show, is not true.

One of the newspaper commentators who is a White House favorite and who, I believe, supplied the President with the phrase "Great Society," carries this mathematical measurement of consensus to limits of pure moonshine.

He has claimed that while a consensus is not merely a 50 per cent majority, it lies between 60 and 70 per cent. This, he says, encompasses LBJ's popular majority and also the percentage required to amend the Constitution and ratify treaties.

If this be true, all opposition might as well roll over and play dead. And it might as well render unto the President all concern for "our Lives, our Fortune and our sacred Honor."

THE EXPRESSION "consensus" is derived from a very old constitutional concept, "the consent of the governed." This I have defined on another occasion, and in line with the usage of the great classical exponents of political philosophy, as follows:

"Majority 'rule' is not in fact a principle of our Constitution, for a majority does not rule. It governs. In the long history of the common law, consent is not valid when it's given under duress, physical or political. It's not valid if obtained under the cover of false representations. It's not valid when it is obtained by bribery in any form. And I cannot believe it to be consent when a people submit because they can find no way to refuse.

"Consent is real when those involved freely, knowingly, willingly and with a part in making the situation, enter into the benefits and responsibilities of the decision."

PROHIBITION is our best recent example of an enactment which conformed with the mathematical formula stated above. The 18th Amendment was properly passed with the vote of two-thirds of Congress and three-fourths of the states. Four presidents who swore to uphold it were elected by large majorities. Rooseelt did not openly oppose it when he ran against Hoover. But it failed because there was no consent.

At the present time there is nothing that could be called a consensus on the major legislative "victories" of the President. Many states are flatly opposed to major features of the 1964 Civil Rights Act.

There is sizable opposition to the tricky provisions of the education bill just passed. A high prelate of the Catholic Church still claims that the bill discriminates against children in parochial schools. Protestants in great numbers oppose even the pittance given to private schools.

Most of the medical profession, the insurance companies and great number of citizens, old and young, oppose the medicare bill. The voting rights bill horrifies many constitutional lawyers and probably a third of the states.

THE "MANDATE" given Candidate Johnson was more in opposition to Goldwater than approval of the LBJ programs.

Moreover, opposition which will grow will prove that no consensus is possible for the detailed measures now being enacted.

To claim a consensus behind the Johnson administration is to negate and scrap the concept of two-party government. For it means that we have in Washington today a dictatorship by common consent.

Constitutional Change?

By Raymond J. Crowley

Talk has been abroad in the land of a constitutional convention to curb the Supreme Court. But here's a prediction to paste in your hatband: no such convention will be held.

This forecast is based on conversations with both sides in a great constitutional debate. It is also based on simple arithmetic.

But first a bit of background:

On June 15 last year, the Supreme Court ruled that both houses of state legislatures must be based on population. This may be the most important court decision of the century — more far-reaching even than the school desegregation decree. For it portends a vast shift in grass roots political power, from farm areas to cities and suburbs.

Rural elements, fearful that their interests would be overridden if their dominant political power were shorn away, mounted a counter-attack. They based this on a never-used clause in the Constitution.

THIS SAYS that on application of the legislatures of two-thirds of the states, Congress "shall call a convention for proposing amendments." Any amendments proposed by the convention would be submitted to the states, and would become fundamental law if three-fourths of them ratified.

Up for action before state legislatures has been an application for a convention. The aim: to get a constitutional amendment saying one house of a state legislature may be based on factors other than population, provided the people agree in a referendum.

The Council of State Governments, which favors an amendment, says that 20 states have voted the application. Several others have asked Congress to act, but have not called for a convention.

But 20 is well short of the required two-thirds majority, which is 34. And the movement seems to have run out of steam, though the Council of State Governments is not acknowledging this, of course. There is no prospect that 34 states will sign on the dotted line.

Even if all 50 states signed, Congress would not have to call a convention. To be sure, the Constitution says "shall" but as one supporter of an amendment remarked ruefully: "Who can mandamus (coerce) Congress?"

For one thing, senators from states with huge city populations could filibuster a convention call to a fare-the-well.

ACTUALLY, THE inside information is that the drive for a convention has been a pressure tactic, designed not to get a convention, but to build up support for a constitutional amendment through the usual route.

The way all amendments have been adopted thus far is this: Congress, by two-thirds majority of both houses, proposes an amendment. It becomes part of the Constitution if three-fourths of the states approve.

Dear Truman Twill:

Here is a prediction for you, Twill. In a few years war will be completely automated.

We have been deluged with articles about how smart computers are, so why not put them on the firing line?

All our satellite launchings and moon shots are controlled to the nth degree by mechanical computations, based largely on radar observations.

So, another way to wage "conventional" warfare, short of "nuclear holocaust," would be to set up radar, computers and guns in advantageous locations and let them blaze away at the enemy, who soon would be forced to adopt the same tactics.

WHILE WE'RE talking about computers, you probably read about how they detected a 440-foot variation in the movement of the moon every three years and how they corrected moon time by two-tenths of a second a year.

This is just a reminder so you can set your watch correctly, if you haven't already done so.

What makes this the most interesting of all interesting worlds is that we have such scientific marvels as the above and yet a scholarly book reviewer points out that a scholarly writer made a grammatical error in the first sentence of his book and the sun blinds outfielders in the umpteen-million-dollar Astrodome in Houston.

You can take it from there.

Haven't seen that in years. It sort of reinforces our faith in the police, who by and large have a tough and thankless job.

All our satellite launchings and moon shots are controlled to the nth degree by mechanical computations, based largely on radar observations.

So, another way to wage "conventional" warfare, short of "nuclear holocaust," would be to set up radar, computers and guns in advantageous locations and let them blaze away at the enemy, who soon would be forced to adopt the same tactics.

WHILE WE'RE talking about computers, you probably read about how they detected a 440-foot variation in the movement of the moon every three years and how they corrected moon time by two-tenths of a second a year.

This is just a reminder so you can set your watch correctly, if you haven't already done so.

What makes this the most interesting of all interesting worlds is that we have such scientific marvels as the above and yet a scholarly book reviewer points out that a scholarly writer made a grammatical error in the first sentence of his book and the sun blinds outfielders in the umpteen-million-dollar Astrodome in Houston.

You can take it from there.

A CITY friend of ours said he had to board up his windows because the White Muslims and the Black Citizens Council planned a rumble. At first we thought he was mixed up, but he convinced us a lily by any other name would smell the same.

WE WERE DOING 50 on a 60-mile-an-hour highway when a guy in a sports car whizzed past us at about 80. Four miles farther on, the police had stopped him and presumably were giving him a ticket. Haven't seen that in years. It sort of reinforces our faith in the police, who by and large have a tough and thankless job.

THIS LADY we know who has children said when she was young everything was blamed on the younger generation and now that she is a parent, juvenile delinquency and all is being blamed on the parents. "You can't win," she moaned.

Faithfully yours,
MAX

World Changes Little Over The Years

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Do international problems really change very much in a half-century? Are the basic issues that inflame the passions of peoples around the globe any different now than they were five decades ago?

David Lawrence

Fifty years ago a submarine of the navy of the imperialist government of Germany torpedoed without warning the Lusitania, an unarmed merchant vessel of a British steamship company, and caused the death of 1,198 persons, of whom 124 were Americans.

The whole world stood aghast at this act of brutality. The European war had begun the year before, and the United States was carefully preserving its neutrality. Yet innocent citizens of this and other countries were wiped out in a few minutes.

The theory behind such sinkings was that they would discourage the shipment of supplies to Great Britain and France.

The action was in total disregard of international law and in defiance of warnings which the United States had issued to the belligerent powers not to endanger American lives and property on the high seas. To torpedo unarmed vessels without warning was contrary also to the accepted rules of civilized warfare.

MOST PERPLEXING of all was the problem which faced President Wilson. From Friday to Monday, no word came from the White House except that a protest note was being prepared. On Monday, May 10, however, Mr. Wilson made a speech in Philadelphia in which he conveyed an impression of restraint. Although he made no explicit mention of the Lusitania tragedy, many of his listeners believed that he was referring to the sinking of the ship when he said:

"The example of America must be a special example. The example of America must be the example not merely of peace because it will not fight, but of peace because peace is the healing and elevating influence of the world and strife is not.

"There is such a thing as a man being too proud to fight. There is such a thing as a nation being so right that it does not need to convince others by force that it is right."

These remarks caused a wave of protest inside the United States, although those who were on the pacifist side applauded enthusiastically but in the next few weeks, public opinion developed heavily in favor of the idea that the United States should take a firm and resolute position because the phrase "too proud to fight" had been misconstrued abroad.

CONSEQUENTLY, the second American note, which was sent on June 9 was so strong that the secretary of state, William Jennings Bryan, considered it too belligerent and resigned.

The net effect of the American stand, however, was to prevent a recurrence of such episodes as the sinking of the Lusitania.

President Wilson was re-elected in 1916 as many of his political supporters publicized the slogan: "He Kept Us Out of War."

But on Feb. 1, 1917, the Berlin government announced that it was resuming unrestricted submarine warfare against all neutral and belligerent shipping. The belief evidently prevailed in the German high command that the European war could be won by the Kaiser's forces before the United States could mobilize its troops and get them overseas to rescue the Western Allies.

President Wilson promptly broke diplomatic relations and asked Congress to give him authority to arm merchant ships in order to resist attacks but Congress got involved in a filibuster and debate, led mostly by the "liberals" of those times, and the session adjourned on its fixed date — March 4 — without granting the requested authority.

Mr. Wilson went ahead, anyhow, believing that he had the constitutional power without action by Congress. When American vessels were sunk, the President immediately asked Congress to declare war, and it did so on April 6, 1917 — not even six months after the 1916 election.

PRESIDENT WILSON made it clear that the United States was making war not against the German people but against its misguided rulers. Likewise, at the end of the conflict, Mr. Wilson sponsored the concept of a League of Nations as the only way to maintain peace in the world — by the cooperation of peoples.

Unfortunately, after the war was over, members of the United States Senate who were believers in isolationist doctrines prevented the United States from ratifying the first peace treaty which had contained a provision for the establishment of the League of Nations. Most of the other countries joined it anyhow, but in less than 10 years the League found itself powerless in the face of aggressive acts of autocracies, very much as the United Nations is floundering today.

The difficulty then, as now, concerns the inability of peoples to make their voices heard and to keep autocratic governments from threatening the peace of the world and from launching a war.

When people are really able to communicate with people, a time may come when misguided governments can be restrained from plunging their countries and the rest of the world into war.

What's This Thing Called 'Consensus'?

By RAYMOND MOLEY

"Who Put The Con In Consensus?" is the title given this year to a satirical show produced annually by the Cleveland City Club. It will be the 52nd annual show. It's most remarkable that 51 of the scripts have been written by a beloved Clevelander, Judge Carl D. Friebolin. Age has not withered Freibolin's thought-provoking humor. He is 87.

The City Club's annual "Anvil Revue" is a sharp spoof about political affairs at all levels. Presumably the chief subject which will be hammered on this year will be the Johnson Great Society and the President's claim that his program represents a national "consensus."

I BORROW the title to examine this concept of "consensus" which LBJ uses as the justification of the huge program of domestic handouts which with ruthless abandon and little concern for consequences is being enacted into law by a slavishly obedient congressional majority.

When the President talks about having a "consensus" for what he wants, he is assuming that the large majority he received in November justifies the use of the expression.

He assumes that a consensus is something that can be identified on mathematical grounds. This, I hope to show, is not true.

One of the newspaper commentators who is a White House favorite and who, I believe, supplied the President with the phrase "Great Society," carries this mathematical measurement of consensus to limits of pure moonshine.

He has claimed that while a consensus is not merely a 50 per cent majority, it lies between 60 and 70 per cent. This, he says, encompasses LBJ's popular majority and also the percentage required to amend the Constitution and ratify treaties.

If this be true, all opposition might as well roll over and play dead. And it might as well render unto the President all concern for "our Lives, our Fortune and our sacred Honor."

THE EXPRESSION "consensus" is derived from a very old constitutional concept, "the consent of the governed." This I have defined on another occasion, and in line with the usage of the great classical exponents of political philosophy, as follows:

"Majority 'rule' is not in fact a principle of our Constitution, for a majority does not rule. It governs. In the long history of the common law, consent is not valid when it's given under duress, physical or political. It's not valid if obtained under the cover of false representations. It's not valid when it is obtained by bribery in any form. And I cannot believe it to be consent when a people submit because they can find no way to refuse.

"Consent is real when those involved freely, knowingly, willingly and with a part in making the situation, enter into the benefits and responsibilities of the decision."

PROHIBITION is our best recent example of an enactment which conformed with the mathematical formula stated above. The 18th Amendment was properly passed with the vote of two-thirds of Congress and three-fourths of the states. Four presidents who swore to uphold it were elected by large majorities. Rooseelt did not openly oppose it when he ran against Hoover. But it failed because there was no consent.

At the present time there is nothing that could be called a consensus on the major legislative "victories" of the President. Many states are flatly opposed to major features of the 1964 Civil Rights Act.

There is sizable opposition to the tricky provisions of the education bill just passed. A high prelate of the Catholic Church still claims that the bill discriminates against children in parochial schools. Protestants in great numbers oppose even the pittance given to private schools.

Most of the medical profession, the insurance companies and great number of citizens, old and young, oppose the medicare bill. The voting rights bill horrifies many constitutional lawyers and probably a third of the states.

THE "MANDATE" given Candidate Johnson was more in opposition to Goldwater than approval of the LBJ programs.

Moreover, opposition which will grow will prove that no consensus is possible for the detailed measures now being enacted.

To claim a consensus behind the Johnson administration is to negate and scrap the concept of two-party government. For it means that we have in Washington today a dictatorship by common consent.

Constitutional Change?

By Raymond J. Crowley

Talk has been abroad in the land of a constitutional convention to curb the Supreme Court. But here's a prediction to paste in your hatband: no such convention will be held.

This forecast is based on conversations with both sides in a great constitutional debate. It is also based on simple arithmetic.

But first a bit of background:

On June 15 last year, the Supreme Court ruled that both houses of state legislatures must be based on population. This may be the most important court decision of the century — more far-reaching even than the school desegregation decree. For it portends a vast shift in grass roots political power, from farm areas to cities and suburbs.

Rural elements, fearful that their interests would be overridden if their dominant political power were shorn away, mounted a counter-attack. They based this on a never-used clause in the Constitution.

THIS SAYS that on application of the legislatures of two-thirds of the states, Congress "shall call a convention for proposing amendments." Any amendments proposed by the convention would be submitted to the states, and would become fundamental law if three-fourths of them ratified.

Up for action before state legislatures has been an application for a convention. The aim: to get a constitutional amendment saying one house of a state legislature may be based on factors other than population, provided the people agree in a referendum.

The Council of State Governments, which favors an amendment, says that 20 states have voted the application. Several others have asked Congress to act, but have not called for a convention.

But 20 is well short of the required two-thirds majority, which is 34. And the movement seems to have run out of steam, though the Council of State Governments is not acknowledging this, of course. There is no prospect that 34 states will sign on the dotted line.

Even if all 50 states signed, Congress would not have to call a convention. To be sure, the Constitution says "shall" but as one supporter of an amendment remarked ruefully: "Who can mandamus (coerce) Congress?"

For one thing, senators from states with huge city populations could filibuster a convention call to a fare-the-well.

ACTUALLY, THE inside information is that the drive for a convention has been a pressure tactic, designed not to get a convention, but to build up support for a constitutional amendment through the usual route.

The way all amendments have been adopted thus far is this: Congress, by two-thirds majority of both houses, proposes an amendment. It becomes part of the Constitution if three-fourths of the states approve.

Letter To Editor

EDITOR OF THE REVIEW:

It has been nearly a month since our home in the Hammondsville area burned to the ground. All our material possessions were lost.

We were at home at the time and escaped with our eight children and our night clothes.

We wish to take this opportunity to thank The Review, Patterson Foundry and Machine Co., Steelworkers Local 1322, WOHI, the various fire departments and church groups, the Red Cross, the Hammondsville school and the many, many home owners who donated their time, money and clothing and furniture toward our welfare.

We were given enough clothing and furniture to go back into housekeeping.

Our past experience proved to us again that no one stands alone.

Rebels

tions took place Sunday without official explanation.

Units of the 4th U.S. Marine Expeditionary Force and 82nd Airborne Division installed 105mm howitzers in a field in front of the Embajador Hotel, the seaside resort in suburban Santo Domingo which has been an evacuation center and American headquarters area.

Bulldozers scooped out huge holes for the howitzer emplacements and the cannon were set up facing east — toward the rebel area. Access routes to the hotel also appeared to have more troops than usual.

The rebels returned three American Seabees they captured Friday. They were Mike D. Monk, 29, Vandemere, N.C.; Ellard C. Dana, 40, Virginia Beach, Va., and Donald E. Martin, 27, Wichita, Kan.

In New York, former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, the Allied commander in chief in World War II, said the time had come for the Soviet Union to "rehabilitate" Zhukov.

"He was a very good soldier," Eisenhower said, "and he tried his best to make things work in Berlin."

Most of the Atlantic Alliance ambassadors skipped the parade by what some diplomatic sources said was prior agreement. Only the French and Icelandic ambassadors attended.

Woman, 27, Held In Check Charge

A Summitville woman was held for the Grand Jury today by Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff after waiving a preliminary hearing on a charge that she had forged the signature of another woman and cashed a $186 check at a city furniture store.

Miss Martha Hanley, 27, entered a not guilty plea through her counsel, Atty. Joseph J. Baronzzi of Lisbon, and was released on her own recognizance.

The affidavit had been filed April 23 by Ralph A. Finley, secretary - treasurer of the Smith & Phillips Co. of Washington St.

It alleged that Miss Hanley on April 8 made out a check on the Citizens Banking Co. of Salineville for $186 payable to herself and signed by Mrs. Harry Shaff. The check was endorsed by Miss Hanley and Smith & Phillips, but had been returned by the bank with a note indicating a falsified signature.

Samples told officers he "must have fallen asleep." Police said the Crumbley vehicle moved forward 15 to 20 feet before hitting the Seevers car.

There was heavy damage to the right front of the Samples car. The Crumbley car was damaged heavily about the left rear and slightly on the front, while the left tail light, gravel pan and left quarter panel of the Seevers car were damaged, police said.

The young woman told police she was driving east on E. 3rd St. and as she moved into the intersection with Washington St. she saw the boy riding downgrade on Washington St. She said she stopped her car and the boy on the bike steered between two cars which were stopped in a traffic line and then hit her car. The collision damaged the rear bumper, splash pan and gasoline tank of the Mathias car, the entire front end and the rear of the Croxall car and the left front of Pridemore's vehicle, police reported. Croxall was X-rayed at City Hospital Sunday for neck and knee injuries, police said.

Pridemore, who pleaded guilty, was required to turn in his operator's permit until he can show the court that he has made satisfactory arrangements to pay for the damages to the Croxall and Mathias autos, Judge Chertoff said.

Judge Chertoff handed down the suspension after hearing from the defendant and the other two motorists in the crash.

tions took place Sunday without official explanation.

Units of the 4th U.S. Marine Expeditionary Force and 82nd Airborne Division installed 105mm howitzers in a field in front of the Embajador Hotel, the seaside resort in suburban Santo Domingo which has been an evacuation center and American headquarters area.

Bulldozers scooped out huge holes for the howitzer emplacements and the cannon were set up facing east — toward the rebel area. Access routes to the hotel also appeared to have more troops than usual.

The rebels returned three American Seabees they captured Friday. They were Mike D. Monk, 29, Vandemere, N.C.; Ellard C. Dana, 40, Virginia Beach, Va., and Donald E. Martin, 27, Wichita, Kan.

Most of the Atlantic Alliance ambassadors skipped the parade by what some diplomatic sources said was prior agreement. Only the French and Icelandic ambassadors attended.

Woman, 27, Held In Check Charge

A Summitville woman was held for the Grand Jury today by Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff after waiving a preliminary hearing on a charge that she had forged the signature of another woman and cashed a $186 check at a city furniture store.

Miss Martha Hanley, 27, entered a not guilty plea through her counsel, Atty. Joseph J. Baronzzi of Lisbon, and was released on her own recognizance.

The affidavit had been filed April 23 by Ralph A. Finley, secretary - treasurer of the Smith & Phillips Co. of Washington St.

It alleged that Miss Hanley on April 8 made out a check on the Citizens Banking Co. of Salineville for $186 payable to herself and signed by Mrs. Harry Shaff. The check was endorsed by Miss Hanley and Smith & Phillips, but had been returned by the bank with a note indicating a falsified signature.

A city motorist escaped injury but was cited on two charges after a collision Sunday night on Route 30, one of nine weekend crashes investigated by the Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon.

Theodore H. Kashuba, 64, of 1110 Pope Ave. was cited for improper passing and lack of an operator's license after his 1961 sedan and a 1957 sedan driven by Herbert Kuntz, 21, of Carmichaels, Pa., R. D. 1 collided Sunday at 7 p. m. on Route 30 just over a mile north of East Liverpool.

Officers said both were northbound. Kuntz was in the passing lane and Kashuba, following an unidentified vehicle, cut out to pass. Kashuba's car was hit in the left side by the Kuntz auto, the patrol said.

Officers said the station wagon was disabled and parked in a private driveway with the rear sticking onto the highway. It was hit by a 1959 sedan driven by Thomas M. Dubberly, 18, of R. D. 3, who told officers he did not see the vehicle.

THE OTHER car was driven by Forrest M. Ross, 63, of Youngstown. The southbound lane was closed because of a rock slide and the accident occurred just north of Wellsville in the northbound lane where a two-way flow of traffic had been set up for a detour around the slide.

Bickel started passing another car. Ross, headed in the opposite direction, drove up over the divider to avoid a collision.

Another accident occured at the same location Saturday afternoon at 3:20.

It involved cars driven by Harold H. Blaney, 64, of 1235 Willow Ave., Wellsville, Dallas J. Groves, 35, of Appian Way, Wellsville, and Robert McBane Jr., 22, of Akron.

Minister Resigns In Rights Dispute

CLEVELAND (AP) — A Shaker Heights pastor has resigned because, he said, his views on civil rights and other social and political matters differed from those held by a majority of his congregation in the fashionable suburb.

The Rev. Milton D. Jones, since 1954 pastor of the 275-member Immanuel Church (United Church of Christ), announced his resignation Sunday, effective July 15 and said he will go to an integrated church in Cincinnati, the Immanuel United Church of Christ.

The ministers said opposition by some members to his invitation to Negroes to join the church were among his reasons for leaving.

In his letter of resignation, the Rev. Mr. Jones, 38, said the congregation had given him a vote of confidence at its annual meeting Jan. 13. But on Feb. 4, he said, the church's spiritual council informed him of its unanimous decision that he should resign.

Minister Resigns In Rights Dispute

CLEVELAND (AP) — A Shaker Heights pastor has resigned because, he said, his views on civil rights and other social and political matters differed from those held by a majority of his congregation in the fashionable suburb.

The Rev. Milton D. Jones, since 1954 pastor of the 275-member Immanuel Church (United Church of Christ), announced his resignation Sunday, effective July 15 and said he will go to an integrated church in Cincinnati, the Immanuel United Church of Christ.

The ministers said opposition by some members to his invitation to Negroes to join the church were among his reasons for leaving.

In his letter of resignation, the Rev. Mr. Jones, 38, said the congregation had given him a vote of confidence at its annual meeting Jan. 13. But on Feb. 4, he said, the church's spiritual council informed him of its unanimous decision that he should resign.

ANCIENT ORIGIN OF RINGS

Rings are the oldest known form of jewelry. Even before the pin used to fasten an animal skin about the shoulders, primitive man adorned his hand with rings. In Biblical days, they served a purpose — as a signet or seal symbolizing authority. The ring was also used as a pledge for the performance of a promise.

Scripture tells us that when Judith arrayed herself to meet Holofernes she wore rich bracelets, ear-rings and rings. The earliest material used for rings was pure gold which was usually very thin. Rings were worn not only on the hands but also in the ears and nostrils. Besides gold, rings were made of inferior metals — bronze, iron or silver. Often, in later years, carved gems or intaglios were used on the rings. These stones were most often of lapis lazuli, carnelian or emerald, all of which were easily carved.

The Etruscans made perhaps the most valuable rings at their time. They have been found of every variety — with precious stones, massive gold designs, or with engraved stones of remarkable beauty. Many were in the form of a knot or with the coiled serpent design that has endured to the present day.

In Roman times, the right of granting the privilege of wearing a gold ring belonged to the emperors. Soldiers were allowed gold rings, but lower ranking citizens had to content themselves with iron rings. However, this did not last too long, for with increasing love of luxury the Romans, like the Greeks, began to cover their hands with rings — sometimes two or more on a finger.

Bringing Up A Family

By Dr. GARRY MYERS

Poisonous Products Can Be Hazardous

Often a mother writes me of a child in the grades (typically a boy) who hurries through his written work, often making many mistakes and writing untidily. When the class has a brief written assignment he may be the first to finish. Sometimes this child is referred to as nervous; "Can't sit still," or "moves about the room excessively," or "disturbs the other children who have not finished."

Dr. Garry Myers

Too often the teacher accepts this child's work, without requiring him to redo it more carefully. She may complain to his parents about his ways of haste and carelessness at school, when his parents suppose the teacher expects them to command him to have more careful ways at school.

On their own, these parents will probably exhort him often and at great length, even punishing him at home or threatening to do so, if he does not improve his ways at school.

WHILE THE teacher wisely may apprise the parents of this child's school problem, she is rather foolish to suggest that they scold or punish him at home, for a solution.

Instead, the teacher should warn these parents not to do so, but to consider better ways to guide him in calmer and more careful ways in doing things at home. Then his improved ways there might carry over to school.

Suppose this child is yours. First have his doctor give him a careful physical check-up and advise you on ways to calm him down. Strive to provide him with a calm, cheerful atmosphere at home. Limit his TV viewing; rule out programs of violence.

See that this child has ample outdoor fun with other children but does not grow over - tired or too much excited. See that he gets ample, regular sleep. Look into any matters which might seem to worry him. Does he feel he is secure in the family?

SEE THAT he has a few regular home chores. Guide him in doing them faithfully and carefully. If, for example, he is to set the table, he may place the dishes and silverware carelessly. Require him to do this job well. It would be better to have him do two or three such jobs well than to have him do many jobs which he hurries through carelessly.

Don't trust to jawing. When he does not measure up reasonably at a job he can do well, require him to sit unamused, doing nothing, where you can see him for 25 or 40 minutes, depending on his age.

As he ordinarily moves through the house require him to walk; he nearly always may have been running then. Forbid his roughhousing indoors with other children.

When he has written homework assigned at school, quietly encourage him to do it neatly and carefully. Be ready to spell any word for him or to help him find it in the dictionary. He may never have learned to write neatly and legibly. Calmly guide him to do so; be especially patient if he has poor coordination.

STUDY MY enclosed bulletin, "Home Helps in Handwriting" (which may be secured by anyone reading this column by sending a self - addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of The Review.)

Often inspect his written work for school. If there is reasonable time, require him to redo it if you are sure he could do it much better.

Seek more ways to have good times with this child in the family.

Don't trust to jawing. When he does not measure up reasonably at a job he can do well, require him to sit unamused, doing nothing, where you can see him for 25 or 40 minutes, depending on his age.

As he ordinarily moves through the house require him to walk; he nearly always may have been running then. Forbid his roughhousing indoors with other children.

When he has written homework assigned at school, quietly encourage him to do it neatly and carefully. Be ready to spell any word for him or to help him find it in the dictionary. He may never have learned to write neatly and legibly. Calmly guide him to do so; be especially patient if he has poor coordination.

Often inspect his written work for school. If there is reasonable time, require him to redo it if you are sure he could do it much better.

Irving Berlin, 77, Won't Become Crabby Old Man

NEW YORK (AP) — Irving Berlin will be 77 Tuesday and one of the people least interested in that fact is Irving Berlin.

"It leaves me cold," he said during a brief business trip to the city from the Catskill Mountain home where he spends much of his time.

Berlin will spend his birthday there, with some of his family around to help him celebrate quietly. He said he wasn't particularly looking forward to it.

"I'm looking much more forward to what I'm going to do after my birthday," he said. "The question is, are you going to be a crabby old man, or are you going to write another song?"

Berlin, who has been writing another song for more than half a century, wanted it understood that he doesn't have any intention of just being a crabby old man.

Recently, he said, he finished seven new songs for a movie, to be produced by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and called "Say It With Music." In the movie, he said, there also will be 25 old songs, including the title song, all by Irving Berlin.

Since he first sold a song for 33 cents in 1907 — "Marie From Sunny Italy" — Berlin has written the words and music for more than 900 songs. A high proportion of them are all-time hits.

Berlin doesn't know much about the new movie — "My job's already finished and it will be a big spectacular."

He is enthusiastic about a Broadway show in which he's involved and which might be produced next season.

"I can't say definitely," he says. "You can't sound off until you're pretty certain about it. Show business is very indefinite these days."

In between such special projects, Berlin enjoys the country —"It's wonderful—you just relax" — and keeping in touch with the "very competent people" who run his very lucrative music publishing business.

Berlin said his health is "fine — all my vital organs function well." He doesn't show his age — "you don't unless you lose your hair or get thin, and I've been able to hold onto my hair."

He says his work doesn't come any harder than it did 40 years ago.

"That doesn't mean," he says, "that you sit down and write a hit — but I didn't do that 40 years ago, either. It all depends on how much talent you have and how you feel.

"If you're a good song writer, you write good songs. Sometimes one will be a hit."

Officers Seated For Lisbon VFW

LISBON — John Blacksom was installed as commander of Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 4111 at the 20th anniversary dinner Saturday night at the post home. He succeeds Melvin Stark.

Other officers installed by Atty. Howard M. Cole of Lisbon, past state commander, were: Rudy Novak, senior vice commander; Joe Murphy, junior vice commander; Howard Lipe, chaplain; Leonard Warner, quartermaster; Anthony Borghi, Evan Evans and Ralph McDevitt, trustees, and Cole, judge advocate. They will take office July 1.

Nick Ieropoli was toastmaster and Cole spoke on the Veterans Administration. The Rev. William Ring of St. Jacob's United Church of Christ gave the invocation and The Rev. Ralph Green of Trinity United Presbyterian Church gave the benediction.

The VFW Auxiliary prepared and served the dinner. Mrs. Ring, Mrs. Green, Mrs. Cole and John Eaholtz were guests. Al Banks Orchestra from Minerva played for dancing.

But the money was not needed, Judge Chertoff was told this morning by William Brookes, rear 944 Fairview St., who said he managed to raise the $6 required and had applied for new licenses for the animals.

Judge Chertoff said he had received an anonymous letter enclosing 25 cents earmarked for a fund to buy licenses for the pets of Brooks' children, 2 and 4.

The judge said another city man had contributed a $2 bill and declared he was prepared to pay the remaining $3.75 to spare the lives of the two dogs.

Judge Chertoff instructed Dog Warden Harold Flowers to release the animals from the pound as soon as Brooks gets the licenses.

Judge Chertoff had issued a court order last Thursday sparing the lives of the two animals to allow Brooks additional time to secure funds for the licenses. The licenses cost $2 each, but a $1 penalty is applied after the deadline.

The case started April 29 when Flowers filed a charge against Brooks alleging that he permitted the dogs to run at large. Brooks told the court voluntarily that the dogs do not have 1965 licenses because he has been unemployed since January.

A continuance was granted May 3 and then continued until last Thursday when Brooks said he still hadn't been able to raise the money.

The warden advised the court last week that he has impounded the dogs and added that the three - day period required by law expired Wednesday night, making the dogs subject to destruction under a city ordinance.

Judge Chertoff then issued a court order forbidding Flowers from disposing of the dogs until today's hearing.

Dogs Spared When Owner Gets New Tag

The plight of two dogs, pets of the young children of an unemployed West End man, aroused the sympathy of several residents, including Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff, who were prepared today to pay for licenses for the two animals facing possible destruction.

But the money was not needed, Judge Chertoff was told this morning by William Brookes, rear 944 Fairview St., who said he managed to raise the $6 required and had applied for new licenses for the animals.

Judge Chertoff said he had received an anonymous letter enclosing 25 cents earmarked for a fund to buy licenses for the pets of Brooks' children, 2 and 4.

The judge said another city man had contributed a $2 bill and declared he was prepared to pay the remaining $3.75 to spare the lives of the two dogs.

The warden advised the court last week that he has impounded the dogs and added that the three - day period required by law expired Wednesday night, making the dogs subject to destruction under a city ordinance.

Judge Chertoff then issued a court order forbidding Flowers from disposing of the dogs until today's hearing.

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: I was struck by the letter from the 13-year-old boy who said he never opened his mouth to speak until he was 4 years of age. Now he says he talks all the time and it bothers him because his friends call him "Gabby."

I believe the problem is deeper than your reply suggested. The child who does not speak is silent for a reason. He is so alienated from one or both parents — so angry and filled with rage — that his silence is a way of punishing them for making him feel unloved and unwanted. So he cuts them out of his world.

Overtalkativeness is compensation. Such a person is in agony because he cannot communicate his great need for love and understanding. He must find out, through therapy why he did not talk in the early years. Then he will understand why he talks too much now.—DR. X.

Dear Dr: I appreciate it when an expert alerts me to an aspect of a problem which I missed. This gives my column an added dimension which is invaluable, not only to me but to my readers.

I overlooked the significance of the boy's early silence. You caught it and related it to his present problem. Thank you for writing.

Television Addicts

Dear Ann: Our children are 7 and 9 years of age. They love to watch TV. My wife thinks this is great because it keeps them out of her hair for hours on end.

After dinner the children sit in front of the set until they can't see straight. When I tell my wife to put the kids to bed she says, "They will go when they get tired."

The kids end up falling asleep on the floor. I have to undress them and carry them to their beds. Sometimes it is 11 p.m.

This goes on night after night. My wife sees nothing wrong with it. What do you say? — ONE AGAINST THREE.

-:-

Dear One: When children have a mother who is afraid to tell them what to do their only hope is a father who will take over.

Starting tomorrow tell the children they have a bedtime schedule. The 7 - year - old should be in bed at 8 p.m. and the 9-year-old at 8:30. And don't take any lip.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self - addressed envelope.

Klan Stages Orderly Rally

ANNISTON, Ala. (AP) — Ku Klux Klan leaders held a massive Mothers Day rally and parade in this northeast Alabama city and heard Imperial Wizard Robert M. Shelton declare that "segregation and purity of the races is God's law."

There were no disorders, nor arrests, as the klansmen and about 500 supporters met in the Municipal Auditorium and then paraded for 10 blocks under a warm sun through the downtown area.

The orderliness of the demonstration was in sharp contrast to Mothers Day in 1961 and 1963 when there were outbursts of racial violence here.

Joining Sunday's marchers were the three Klansmen charged with the March 25 slaying of Viola Liuzzo, a Detroit housewife who was shot to death near Lowndesboro while shuttling civil rights workers from Montgomery to Selma following a march to the capital.

The trio—Eugene Thomas, 43; William Orville Eaton, 42 and Collie Leroy Wilkins Jr., 21, all of the Birmingham area — got a standing ovation when they were introduced by Shelton.

Wilkins was tried in Hayneville, Ala., last week, but the case ended in a mistrial when the 12 jurymen deadlocked 10-2

Police Probe Theft Of Tent

Police are investigating theft of a brand new umbrella tent valued at $44.95 from the yard at the owner's home.

Mrs. George Crouch, 941 Vine St., told police early Saturday afternoon the 9-x-9-foot green umbrella tent was taken sometime Friday night or Saturday morning. It had been purchased just three days previously, she said.

William Johnson, 704 Oakland Ave., told police a rubber mat and radio knobs were stolen from his 1963 model car in the garage at his home between 2 and 11 a. m. Sunday.

Alvin T. Babb of YELP Service, Inc., told officers Sunday a tarpaulin was stolen from one of the company's trucks on the River Rd. Saturday between 2:30 and 9 a. m.

Sam Caplan, 2625 St. Clair Ave., reported to police Sunday four hubcaps were stolen from his 1963 model auto Friday or Saturday night while it was parked in front of his home.

Several vandalism cases also were reported to police.

Carl Barton, 1089 Mapletree St., told officers Saturday night a vandal smashed the rear window out of his 1954 model auto while it was parked at his home.

Mrs. Mabel Whitney, 1362 Pennsylvania Ave., reported vandals removed two spotlights from the rear of the garage at her home sometime Friday night or Saturday and then smashed them.

Use your electric blender when you want to puree fresh fruit. If raspberries, fresh or frozen, are pureed you will have to take an additional step and put the mixture through a very fine sieve to remove the seeds.

'Wild' Steers Caught In Tornado-Hit Area

LIMA, Ohio (AP) — Three steers, freed from their pens by a Palm Sunday tornado, were rounded up by an Allen County sheriff's posse Sunday.

Deputies said the animals, owned by Millard Heir, a northern Allen County farmer, had turned wild while roaming the countryside for a month.

Whitfield's 7 Hits Lead Indians To Sweep At Boston

FRED WHITFIELD
Seven Hits In 2 Games.

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

It figured. Soon as Baltimore Manager Hank Bauer needed a pinch hitter he called on Brooks Robinson, the guy with the Most Valuable Thumb in the American League.

Batting with a broken right thumb that is expected to keep him out of the starting line-up for about 10 days, Robinson slapped a pinch-hit single in the 12th inning and scored the winning run as the Orioles completed a doubleheader sweep by edging Detroit 5-4 Sunday.

The Orioles had won the opener 7-1 with Robinson playing four innings before he finally submitted his swollen and discolored right thumb to X rays that revealed a fracture between the knuckles of the finger.

The Most Valuable Player in the AL last season when he hit .317 with 28 homers and 118 runs batted in, Robinson suffered the break when he was hit on the hand by a Hank Aguirre pitch in Saturday's game against the Tigers.

"The doctor told me it would take 10 days for the swelling to go down," said Robinson, "and that it would be up to me to play when I felt I could."

Robinson felt he could pinch hit in the 12th and stroked a one-out single off Fred Gladding. He moved to second when Gladding hit Paul Blair with a pitch and scored on Norm Siebern's single.

★ ★ ★ Injured Robinson Sparks Orioles ★ ★ ★

Another part - timer, Fred Whitfield, lashed seven hits in nine at-bats and drove in three runs in each game as Cleveland defeated Boston twice, 9-4 and 10-7. Elsewhere, Washington edged the New York Yankees 5-4, Minnesota belted the Chicago White Sox 6-1 and Los Angeles Angels downed Kansas City 5-3.

The Orioles won the opener behind the six-hit pitching of Milt Pappas, who was making only his second start since injuring his knee April 19. Boog Powell drove in three runs with a homer and two sacrifice flies.

The Tigers pulled out to a 4-2 lead in the nightcap on two-run homers by Al Kaline and Willie Horton before the Orioles tied it in the seventh when Jim Northrup misjudged Luis Aparicio's liner that went for a triple.

The Indians collected 32 hits in the twinbill against the Red Sox with Whitfield, who is platooned at first base, collecting a single, double and triple in the opener and a double and two singles in the nightcap while raising his average 121 points to .429.

Whitfield recovered considerable support in the batting department in the second game with Rocky Colavito and winning pitcher Sonny Siebert slamming homers. Tony Conigliaro hit two for Boston, his sixth and seventh, while Lee Thomas contributed one.

The Senators snapped a 2-2 tie in the seventh on Don Zimmer's sacrifice fly with the bases loaded but scored the eventual deciding run in the eighth on two walks issued by Hal Reniff, a hit batter by Gil Blanco and a dropped third strike by Bob Schmidt.

Camilo Pascual won his fourth game without a loss for the Twins, checking the White Sox on seven hits and also hitting a homer. Zoilo Versalles added another homer for Minnesota. A pinch-hit single in the seventh inning by Moose Skowron produced the Chicago run.

Jose Cardenal was the key for the Angels, slamming a homer and single and also stealing home. Fred Newman brought his record to 4-1 with Bob Lee's relief help as Los Angeles won its seventh game in the last eight.

Reds' 3-Run Ninth Spills Bucs

Robinson Singles With Bases Full

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

It figured. Soon as Cincinnati Manager Dick Sisler needed a pinch hitter he called on Frank Robinson, the guy with the Most Valuable Thumb in the National League.

Batting with a badly injured left thumb that has turned him into a part-time player, Robinson rapped a pinch single with the bases loaded in the ninth inning Sunday, driving in two runs and giving the Reds a 5-3 victory over Pittsburgh.

The Cincinnati slugger batted — for the first time since Friday night — despite a badly swollen left hand stemming from the thumb injury he suffered a week ago against the New York Mets in the first game of a doubleheader.

Robinson, the National League's Most Valuable Player in 1961, jammed the thumb diving back to first base before being picked off by Jack Fisher in the fourth inning. He left the game for a pinch-hitter in the fifth.

Scheduled to start Saturday, he was pulled from the line-up at the last minute. His insertion into the line-up Sunday came at the last minute, too — much to the anguish of the Pirates.

Elsewhere in the NL, Chicago whipped Houston 7-1 after losing 11-5, Milwaukee dropped New York 8-2 before bowing 5-4, Philadelphia trimmed St. Louis 4-2 and San Francisco defeated Los Angeles 6-3.

Robinson's winning hit climaxed the three-run rally that wiped out a 3-2 Pittsburgh lead. Pinch-hitter John Edwards singled across the tying run before Al McBean walked Leo Cardenas, filling the bases. Bob Veale replaced McBean, and Robinson drove in Marty Keough and Edwards.

Ernie Banks homered twice and increased his major league-leading runs-batted-in total to 32 in Chicago's second - game triumph. Glenn Beckert and Don Landrum also homered for the Cubs.

In the opener, Houston collected 18 hits for the second straight game with Rusty Staub driving in five runs on a homer and a double. John Bateman and Jim Wynn added homers for the Astros.

Joe Torre slammed three Milwaukee homers, but the Braves could gain only a split with New York. The Mets deadlocked the second game with three runs in the seventh, the tying tally coming home on a bases-loaded walk to Ed Kranepool. Kranepool then won the game in the ninth with a bases-loaded single.

Torre, who socked two of his homers in the nightcap, got the Braves started in the opener with a two-run homer in the first inning. Mack Jones, who also homered in the second game, added a two-run homer and Denis Menke a three-run blast in support of Tony Cloninger's six-hitter.

Home runs by Dick Stuart and Johnny Callison powered the Phillies past the Cardinals. Both came off Ray Sadecki, 0-4. Stuart's homer followed Richie Allen's triple in the first while Callison connected in the third.

The Giants rallied for four runs in the eighth inning and handed Sandy Koufax his second defeat against three victories. Jesus Alou singled across the tying run, and Ed Bailey sent home the decisive run with a sacrifice fly. Juan Marichal singled in the final run and brought his record to 5-2.

Rain Halts Final Round Of Colonial

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — George Knudson, the Canadian who may become the fifth man to lead the $100,000 Colonial National Golf Tournament all the way, went out today in the rain-plagued tournament boasting a one-stroke bulge over Bruce Crampton and Tony Lema.

The final round was postponed Sunday because of a one-half inch rain accompanied by lightning.

Knudson was neither helped nor hurt by the postponement. Entering the final round with a one-under-par 209 for four holes, George, up with the top echelon in most tournaments, parred the first two holes of the final round before the postponement.

Crampton, who had 210, did the same and stayed a stroke back. But Lema took a bogey on the second hole.

Only 17 players had finished the final round when it was postponed after two stops.

Among the finishers were Tommy Aaron and Chris Blocker, who had one-over-par 71 over the 7,100-yard Colonial Country Club course. But Aaron had 228 for 54 holes and Blocker 226. So they weren't regretful that there had been a postponement.

PHILADELPHIA'S Dick Stuart gave the Phillies the lead as he is shown stepping into a pitch he belted for a two-run homer of Cardinal pitcher Ray Sadecki in the first inning of Sunday's game at Philadelphia. The Phillies went on to win, 4-2. (UPI Telephoto)

Oak Glen Star Injured During Practice Session

Bill Wright, star hurler for Oak Glen High School, is in "fair" condition at City Hospital today from injuries suffered when he collided with another player while going after a fly ball Sunday.

Wright suffered a slight concussion, abrasions of the nose and right elbow when he collided with Mike Newlen of 1024 Church St. East Liverpool while the two were practicing with the American Legion Post 374 team.

Newlen was treated for a laceration above the right eye.

Clay-Liston Fight Moved To Maine Country Town

LEWISTON, Maine (AP) — While local reaction ranges from disbelief to delight, backers of the transplanted Cassius Clay-Sonny Liston heavyweight title fight May 25 figure they've converted the Boston ban into a bonanza.

From Gov. John H. Reed on down, leading public figures and businessmen welcome the world championship event with open arms. Some other citizens still can't figure how the community of 41,000 suddenly is a focal point of the sports world.

It happened of course when legal entanglements and an effort to have the bout banned in Boston left Inter-Continental Promotions Inc. and Sportsvision, which handles the closed circuit television rights, too little time. They could afford no more uncertainties.

So they decided between Bangor and Lewiston, settling on the latter which is closer to Boston, 140 miles to the south. The site, instead of Boston Garden with its 13,909 capacity, is the Lewiston Youth Center where fire laws restrict seating to 3,000. But efforts are being made to expand it to slightly over 5,000.

One Inter-Continental spokesman says Dist. Atty. Garrett Byrne in Boston who sought an injunction banning the fight "may have done us a big favor. It looks as though we'll do better financially here than in Boston."

The spokesman said the rent of the building is $225,000 less than in Boston and the taxes $116,000 lower.

"With the fight out of Boston we open up another big city for the closed-circuit TV, and that's where we'll make our money," the spokesman continued.

While state officials estimated the fight will mean $1 million or more in business and publicity, some folks wondered how to house and feed the many visitors expected.

Larry Hansen of Lynn, Mass., will captain Army's hockey team next season.

Executive Claimed

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP)—Roy C. Marcus, chairman of the Pennsylvania Life Insurance Co., died Saturday at his home at age 61. He had been ill more than a year with cancer. Marcus bought the Pennsylvania company in 1955 and moved its headquarters to Southern California four years later.

Franket's Loft Wins In Race From Newark

Shelley Franket's loft was first in the East Liverpool Homing Pigeon Club's race from Newark Sunday.

Taking second was Pat Connor's entry while Ben Glogar was third and Ray Perrion, fourth.

Next Sunday's race also will be flown from Newark.

Roman Navy Win Streak Is Stopped

Besteater broke the five-race winning streak of Roman Navy at Waterford Park Saturday night by winning the Monongahela Handicap by a neck margin.

Besteater and Roman Navy ran neck-and-neck down the stretch before a crowd of 6,399 which made Roman Navy the 6-to-5 favorite on the basis of five straight winning races for the four-year-old bay gelding. At the wire was Besteater by a neck. The third horse was True Bill, the front runner for most of the one mile and seventy yard race. The time was 1:46.

Jockey C. Wayne Gee, riding Besteater for the first time, saved ground along the rail until the top of the stretch. That's where Besteater and Roman Navy made their move sweeping past True Bill and for a time.

Kathy Whitworth Wins Shreveport Title

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — A third consecutive two-under-par 70 gave Kathy Whitworth top money in the $8,500 Shreveport-Kiwanis Club Women's Invitational Golf Tournament.

The victory Sunday over the par 36-36—72 Palmetto Country Club course gave Miss Whitworth a 54-hole total of 210.

Patty Berg put down an eight-foot putt on the 18th green for a 73 and a 54-hole total of 215, good for second place. It was her best showing since 1962.

Ruth Jessen finished third with an even par total of 216. Mickey Wright's second straight 72 left her in fourth place at 217.

Red Lifts 992 Pounds

EREVAN, Russia (AP) — Viktor Kurentsov, a 24-year-old Russian soldier, is holder of the new world middleweight weightlifting record. Kurentsov lifted 992.08 pounds at the Soviet Championships Sunday, breaking the world mark held by Russia's Alexander Kurynov by 5.5 pounds.

Matson Puts Shot Record Over 70

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Randy Matson, the man with the truck driver's torso, legs of a ballet dancer and grunt of a bull elephant, flipped the shot 70 feet, 7 inches and declared, "Around 70 feet is the ultimate for this thing."

Which means West Coast track fans perhaps shouldn't start expecting 75 feet Friday night when he competes in the Coliseum Relays at Los Angeles.

They will, however, because the mighty Matson, who warms up for the shot put with 68-foot throws, already is ranked with Hercules, Sandow and others of that ilk.

Not by Matson, though. He gives the impression of being awed by the feats of others but not having too much confidence in himself.

"I need a rest so I can work with the weights and build up my strength," he said after he had thrown the shot five times and the shortest was 67 feet, 9 inches. "And I need more speed across the ring."

His opponents, Jim Lancaster of Baylor, for instance, probably think Randy needs more strength about like the Empire State Building. Lancaster was beaten 14 feet, 9 inches by Matson in the Southwest Conference meet here the past weekend when Randy set the world's record of 70-7.

The reason Matson thinks he isn't strong enough is that he can lift only 350 pounds while Dallas Long, the fellow whose world's record of 57-10 Matson has bettered three times, can lift 510.

Matson must be wondering what he will be able to do when he has reached his growth. He is only 20 and is a sophomore in college.

"I have been 6 feet, 6½ ever since high school," said Matson, acting like he feared he might turn out to be a runt, at least among the Giants. "I have gained some weight (now he's 256), but I need to be about 270 so I can be stronger."

Government positions pay as high as $504.00 a month to start. They provide much greater security than private employment and excellent opportunity for advancement. Many positions require little or no specialized education or experience.

But to get one of these jobs, you must pass a test. The competition is keen and in some cases only one out of five pass.

Lincoln Service has helped thousands prepare for these tests every year since 1948. It is one of the largest and oldest privately owned schools of its kind and is not connected with the Government.

Sacré bleu!

It took those sophisticated French to finally come up with the first worthy replacement for the DC-3.

Those French! They've always been best known here for exports that come in drams, fifths, yards, and bikinis. Yet, now they've come up with one measured in tons and miles—the new NORD 262, first worthy replacement for America's old reliable DC-3.

Anything the DC-3 does, the prop-JET Nord does newer. It gets you there faster, and more comfortably. It's air conditioned. Pressurized. Boards on the level. According to the U.S. Civil Aeronautics Board, the NORD 262 is a new aircraft "especially suited" for short haul routes of the type Lake Central flies to 50 mid-central U.S.A. cities. Which is why Lake Central is the first U.S. airline to engage this new French beauty.

Lafayette, we are here! Also Indianapolis, Cleveland, Wheeling, Baltimore, etc., etc., etc.

Roman Navy Win Streak Is Stopped

Besteater broke the five-race winning streak of Roman Navy at Waterford Park Saturday night by winning the Monongahela Handicap by a neck margin.

Besteater and Roman Navy ran neck-and-neck down the stretch before a crowd of 6,399 which made Roman Navy the 6-to-5 favorite on the basis of five straight winning races for the four-year-old bay gelding. At the wire was Besteater by a neck. The third horse was True Bill, the front runner for most of the one mile and seventy yard race. The time was 1:46.

Jockey C. Wayne Gee, riding Besteater for the first time, saved ground along the rail until the top of the stretch. That's where Besteater and Roman Navy made their move sweeping past True Bill and for a time.

Kathy Whitworth Wins Shreveport Title

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — A third consecutive two-under-par 70 gave Kathy Whitworth top money in the $8,500 Shreveport-Kiwanis Club Women's Invitational Golf Tournament.

The victory Sunday over the par 36-36—72 Palmetto Country Club course gave Miss Whitworth a 54-hole total of 210.

Patty Berg put down an eight-foot putt on the 18th green for a 73 and a 54-hole total of 215, good for second place. It was her best showing since 1962.

Ruth Jessen finished third with an even par total of 216. Mickey Wright's second straight 72 left her in fourth place at 217.

Red Lifts 992 Pounds

EREVAN, Russia (AP) — Viktor Kurentsov, a 24-year-old Russian soldier, is holder of the new world middleweight weight-lifting record. Kurentsov lifted 992.08 pounds at the Soviet Championships Sunday, breaking the world mark held by Russia's Alexander Kurynov by 5.5 pounds.

Matson Puts Shot Record Over 70

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Randy Matson, the man with the truck driver's torso, legs of a ballet dancer and grunt of a bull elephant, flipped the shot 70 feet, 7 inches and declared, "Around 70 feet is the ultimate for this thing."

Which means West Coast track fans perhaps shouldn't start expecting 75 feet Friday night when he competes in the Coliseum Relays at Los Angeles.

They will, however, because the mighty Matson, who warms up for the shot put with 68-foot throws, already is ranked with Hercules, Sandow and others of that ilk.

Not by Matson, though. He gives the impression of being awed by the feats of others but not having too much confidence in himself.

"I need a rest so I can work with the weights and build up my strength," he said after he had thrown the shot five times and the shortest was 67 feet, 9 inches. "And I need more speed across the ring."

His opponents, Jim Lancaster of Baylor, for instance, probably think Randy needs more strength about like the Empire State Building. Lancaster was beaten 14 feet, 9 inches by Matson in the Southwest Conference meet here the past weekend when Randy set the world's record of 70-7.

The reason Matson thinks he isn't strong enough is that he can lift only 350 pounds while Dallas Long, the fellow whose world's record of 57-10 Matson has bettered three times, can lift 510.

Matson must be wondering what he will be able to do when he has reached his growth. He is only 20 and is a sophomore in college.

"I have been 6 feet, 6½ ever since high school," said Matson, acting like he feared he might turn out to be a runt, at least among the Giants. "I have gained some weight (now he's 256), but I need to be about 270 so I can be stronger."

Sacré bleu!

It took those sophisticated French to finally come up with the first worthy replacement for the DC-3.

Those French! They've always been best known here for exports that come in drams, fifths, yards, and bikinis. Yet, now they've come up with one measured in tons and miles—the new NORD 262, first worthy replacement for America's old reliable DC-3.

Anything the DC-3 does, the prop-JET Nord does newer. It gets you there faster, and more comfortably. It's air conditioned. Pressurized. Boards on the level. According to the U.S. Civil Aeronautics Board, the NORD 262 is a new aircraft "especially suited" for short haul routes of the type Lake Central flies to 50 mid-central U.S.A. cities. Which is why Lake Central is the first U.S. airline to engage this new French beauty.

Lafayette, we are here! Also Indianapolis, Cleveland, Wheeling, Baltimore, etc., etc., etc.

NBC Man Scores Own Space Beat

Frank Bourgholtzer, the NBC correspondent who obtained the exclusive and amazing film of the Russian space walker to be shown on the network next Friday is not eager to reveal how he managed his coup.

Hal Humphrey

It was only last January that Frank got back into Moscow, following expulsion in 1963. The Soviets had nothing personal against him, but were punishing NBC for doing two documentaries ("The Death of Stalin" and "Rise of Khrushchev").

-:-

THE BOURGHOLTZER reluctance to talk probably stems more from a desire to hide trade secrets from ABC and CBS than any fear of piquing the Russian officialdom.

About 10 minutes of Friday's documentary, "The Man Who Walked in Space," is a 35-mm. film account of Col. Aleksei Leonov's adventure outside of Voskhod 2 while it rotated the earth. Except for 2 of those 10 minutes which the cosmonauts filmed inside the capsule, the film is in color.

After "negotiating" with the Novosti Agency for this film, Frank asked permission to meet and interview Leonov and the commander of the space capsule, Col. Pavel Belyayev.

Frank was somewhat surprised to find himself ultimately closeted with Belyayev and Leonov for seven hours in a Moscow film studio shooting two hours of simultaneously translated interview before color cameras.

"IT WAS a genuine interview," says Frank. "I was able to avoid submitting my questions in advance, and it was obvious right away that Belyayev and Leonov were smart enough to give their own answers.

"About half way through the interview, while we were changing magazines on the cameras," Frank recalls, "a Russian official came up to me and said, 'You're getting more than we did from these fellows.' "

Besides being impressed by the ease with which the cosmonauts answered his questions, Frank says he was both surprised and delighted when Leonov volunteered to narrate a description of his walk into space as shown on the film taken by the color camera attached to the outside of their space capsule.

"LEONOV is quite an artist, too, as you'll see during the 40 or 45 minutes of interview we use. He draws several sketches, including one of their Voskhod 2," reports Frank.

How did Frank happen to get such a free rein with his interview? Part of the reason, he believes, was a documentary program he did (before being expelled) which was called "The Kremlin" and which the Russian government liked. Second, although penetrating, his questions to Belyayev and Leonov were confined to their flight.

"I wasn't about to ask either of them how many of their comrades had been killed in space flights, because I knew I wouldn't get an answer," says Frank.

-:-

ACCORDING to NBC's director of news programs, Donald Meaney, Russian officials have not seen the film interview Frank did yet, nor have Russian TV viewers seen the film taken by cameras on Voskhod 2. What they saw, as did American viewers, were TV pictures transmitted to the ground from the capsule.

Plans were dropped for a repeat of "The Louvre" Friday so the Russian space man show could go on, a switch which might cost some art-lovers.

"The sponsors always are looking for something exciting in the way of TV programs," says Meaney. "Remember, they bought our 'White Paper on Cuba' and Brinkley's report on professional boxing, as well as Huntley's study of the Negro in Washington.

-:-

FRANK BOURGHOLTZER, who is visiting in Washington for the next few days, will be watching his program on American TV there. A print was donated to the Russians by NBC for their TV.

"There are two channels in Russia now, but I'd have to say that most of their TV is pretty awful," says Frank.

County's Courts Pay $4,385 To Treasurer

LISBON — A total of $4,385.66 was paid to the county treasurer by the three county courts during April, according to Carl L. Stacey, clerk of courts.

A breakdown shows $2,200.69 in fines and another $2,185.06 in civil and criminal cases fines and costs.

The state treasurer received $1,720.90 as its 45 per cent of the patrol fines.

The courts at Salem, East Palestine and Lisbon handled 325 criminal and 61 civil cases during the month.

Sheriff, constable and city police fees amounted to $494.16, Stacey said.

More than half of the American women today who are employed, also are married.

How To Develop Sudden Will Power

"Oh dear me, I want to reduce but my will power is weak. What can I do to strengthen it? I'm trying rather hard," writes a homemaker.

Ida Jean Kain

All those interested in releasing the will for action, tune in. True will, in a mature sense, is tied inseparably with a goal. It's a fascinating fact that when you are absorbed in a project your will carries you inevitably in the direction of your goal.

—:—

THE MIND is a goal seeker. The secret is to harness your will to a goal. What is it you want? You want to slim down to ideal weight. You want to restore your verve and bounce and feel young again! That's the picture to hold in mind.

A certain mental attitude gives power to the will. If you keep your thoughts centered on what you want, and go ahead with enthusiasm, you can reckon with all certainty that you will attain your heart's desire. Why? Because all the forces of your personality are brought to bear on the solution to the problem. Your mind finds ways to help you achieve what you want.

You may think of the will as being self - assertive. It's not, really. The key word is purpose. Recognize that you are dealing with a wonderful potential energy. When you center your thoughts in purposeful action, the flow of energy is in the desired direction.

You will cease to associate will power with self - denial when you think it through. When you turn down rich desserts, what you are really giving up is — excess pounds! This is what you want. Attempting to use the will as a brake is a mistake, too, for you are in a sense, trying to use the will as a force against yourself. True will doesn't work contrary to your inmost desires. Get your thought-pattern rightly aligned.

ANALYZED, will power is willingness to go after what you want. The very moment you make the important inner decision to reduce, that's it. Convinced that reducing is the greatest favor you could do yourself, you want to act. Suddenly you have the needed strength of will. It's as though the will power you exerted to reach the decision is sufficient to overcome all obstacles. This is true will.

How do you keep on course? Find ways to enliven your interest. Work first toward a near goal. Some dieters make the near goal five pounds. Then they set the second goal for the next five. Enthusiasm is re-kindled to tackle the third five pound loss by imaging yourself in a dress one size smaller. Imaging is a strong ally of the will.

Regard a slimming pattern of eating as a way of life that can add zest to living. Expect to triumph!

Out Of The Air

By HAL HUMPHREY

NBC Man Scores Own Space Beat

Frank Bourgholtzer, the NBC correspondent who obtained the exclusive and amazing film of the Russian space walker to be shown on the network next Friday is not eager to reveal how he managed his coup.

Hal Humphrey

It was only last January that Frank got back into Moscow, following expulsion in 1963. The Soviets had nothing personal against him, but were punishing NBC for doing two documentaries ("The Death of Stalin" and "Rise of Khrushchev").

-:-

THE BOURGHOLTZER reluctance to talk probably stems more from a desire to hide trade secrets from ABC and CBS than any fear of piquing the Russian officialdom.

About 10 minutes of Friday's documentary, "The Man Who Walked in Space," is a 35-mm. film account of Col. Aleksei Leonov's adventure outside of Voskhod 2 while it rotated the earth. Except for 2 of those 10 minutes which the cosmonauts filmed inside the capsule, the film is in color.

After "negotiating" with the Novosti Agency for this film, Frank asked permission to meet and interview Leonov and the commander of the space capsule, Col. Pavel Belyayev.

Frank was somewhat surprised to find himself ultimately closeted with Belyayev and Leonov for seven hours in a Moscow film studio shooting two hours of simultaneously translated interview before color cameras.

"IT WAS a genuine interview," says Frank. "I was able to avoid submitting my questions in advance, and it was obvious right away that Belyayev and Leonov were smart enough to give their own answers.

"About half way through the interview, while we were changing magazines on the cameras," Frank recalls, "a Russian official came up to me and said, 'You're getting more than we did from these fellows.'"

Besides being impressed by the ease with which the cosmonauts answered his questions, Frank says he was both surprised and delighted when Leonov volunteered to narrate a description of his walk into space as shown on the film taken by the color camera attached to the outside of their space capsule.

"LEONOV is quite an artist, too, as you'll see during the 40 or 45 minutes of interview we use. He draws several sketches, including one of their Voskhod 2," reports Frank.

How did Frank happen to get such a free rein with his interview? Part of the reason, he believes, was a documentary program he did (before being expelled) which was called "The Kremlin" and which the Russian government liked. Second, although penetrating, his questions to Belyayev and Leonov were confined to their flight.

"I wasn't about to ask either of them how many of their comrades had been killed in space flights, because I knew I wouldn't get an answer," says Frank.

-:-

ACCORDING to NBC's director of news programs, Donald Meaney, Russian officials have not seen the film interview Frank did yet, nor have Russian TV viewers seen the film taken by cameras on Voskhod 2. What they saw, as did American viewers, were TV pictures transmitted to the ground from the capsule.

Plans were dropped for a repeat of "The Louvre" Friday so the Russian space man show could go on, a switch which might cost some art-lovers.

"The sponsors always are looking for something exciting in the way of TV programs," says Meaney. "Remember, they bought our 'White Paper on Cuba' and Brinkley's report on professional boxing, as well as Huntley's study of the Negro in Washington.

-:-

FRANK BOURGHOLTZER, who is visiting in Washington for the next few days, will be watching his program on American TV there. A print was donated to the Russians by NBC for their TV.

"There are two channels in Russia now, but I'd have to say that most of their TV is pretty awful," says Frank.

County's Courts Pay $4,385 To Treasurer

LISBON — A total of $4,385.66 was paid to the county treasurer by the three county courts during April, according to Carl L. Stacey, clerk of courts.

A breakdown shows $2,200.60 in fines and another $2,185.06 in civil and criminal cases fines and costs.

The state treasurer received $1,720.90 as its 45 per cent of the patrol fines.

The courts at Salem, East Palestine and Lisbon handled 325 criminal and 61 civil cases during the month.

Sheriff, constable and city police fees amounted to $494.16, Stacey said.

More than half of the American women today who are employed, also are married.

How To Develop Sudden Will Power

"Oh dear me, I want to reduce but my will power is weak. What can I do to strengthen it? I'm trying rather hard," writes a homemaker.

Ida Jean Kain

All those interested in releasing the will for action, tune in. True will, in a mature sense, is tied inseparably with a goal. It's a fascinating fact that when you are absorbed in a project your will carries you inevitably in the direction of your goal.

—:—

THE MIND is a goal seeker. The secret is to harness your will to a goal. What is it you want? You want to slim down to ideal weight. You want to restore your verve and bounce and feel young again! That's the picture to hold in mind.

A certain mental attitude gives power to the will. If you keep your thoughts centered on what you want, and go ahead with enthusiasm, you can reckon with all certainty that you will attain your heart's desire. Why? Because all the forces of your personality are brought to bear on the solution to the problem. Your mind finds ways to help you achieve what you want.

You may think of the will as being self - assertive. It's not, really. The key word is purpose. Recognize that you are dealing with a wonderful potential energy. When you center your thoughts in purposeful action, the flow of energy is in the desired direction.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

By HELOISE CRUSE

Ladies: About a year ago, a woman wrote and told us to grate cheese as soon as we bring it home from the store and put it in platic bags in our freezer. I have found that this is a wonderful idea.

The grandest thing about it is that I can always remove the exact amount I need. The cheese doesn't stick together when frozen and it thaws instantly. So why dirty a grater each time I need a bit of cheese when I can shred it all at once?

I think I have uses for this grated cheese that you will love, especially when you are on a tight budget.

Try sprinkling some on a lettuce and tomato sandwich. All you do is spread some mustard or mayonnaise (and if you mix the two, it's even better) on some bread or toast.

—:—

ADD SLICED TOMATO and cheese. Then add anything else you want. . . such as pickles or a dash of celery salt.

Make it thick!

When you bite into the sandwich a la Heloise, it's so tentender. . . nothing like sliced cheese.

And know what else?

You also can spread the mustard mixture on a piece of bread, put sliced pickles on it, add a couple of slices of tomato and broil it for a few minutes. Pile some grated cheese on top of the broiled tomato.

At this time, lay a topper (that's another piece of bread) in the broiler so it will toast on one side, and as soon as the grated cheese melts, put the topper on. . .toasted side down. Easier to eat! It's marvelous.

-:-

HERE ARE some variations you can use with cooked, leftover sausage, ham or breakfast bacon. If you have only one or two pieces of bacon, cut them up and sprinkle the pieces over the tomato. Just cook under broiler with everything except the cheese. Then toss the finely grated cheese on top!

Another thing I have found is that the grated cheese makes a wonderful cold lunch for those who carry lunches.

Here's how to do it:

Put mustard, butter (I use oleo) or mayonnaise on your bread, add a piece of lettuce, then add that frozen grated cheese and pile it high! By the time noon comes, the cheese is thawed. Oh, it's so different. The sandwich will stand up twice as high. It's light, puffy and invigorating. . . nothing like a plain slice of cheese.

And. . . grated cheese goes much further. . . no matter what brand you buy.

Try it.

HELOISE.

-:-

DEAR HELOISE: I wonder how many folks have found it hard to get string for their tomato vines that will not slip down on the stakes or rot.

I have found that the tops of old nylon stockings, cut in one-inch strips, are just perfect.

The stockings give just enough to keep the vines from choking, are strong enough to last (if tied in a single or double bow knot), and they are easy to remove when it comes time to pull up the stakes.

These strips can be rolled into a ball and used next season.

MRS. J. C. DAVIDSON.

DEAR HELOISE: My husband burned a hole in a pair of slacks, so he got this smart idea.

He cut a piece of the material from an inside seam of the pants, then used a piece of iron-on tape over this material (on the inside of the slacks).

I couldn't find where he had mended the burned hole, and the patch is holding out so far.

MARY ANN PAUL.

DEAR HELOISE: I keep a new, small paintbrush just for brushing the crumbs out of my electric toaster.

The brush does a much better and quicker job than anything else I have tried.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

By HELOISE CRUSE

Ladies: About a year ago, a woman wrote and told us to grate cheese as soon as we bring it home from the store and put it in platic bags in our freezer. I have found that this is a wonderful idea.

The grandest thing about it is that I can always remove the exact amount I need. The cheese doesn't stick together when frozen and it thaws instantly. So why dirty a grater each time I need a bit of cheese when I can shred it all at once?

I think I have uses for this grated cheese that you will love, especially when you are on a tight budget.

Try sprinkling some on a lettuce and tomato sandwich. All you do is spread some mustard or mayonnaise (and if you mix the two, it's even better) on some bread or toast.

—:—

ADD SLICED TOMATO and cheese. Then add anything else you want. . . such as pickles or a dash of celery salt.

Make it thick!

When you bite into the sandwich a la Heloise, it's so tentender. . . nothing like sliced cheese.

And know what else?

You also can spread the mustard mixture on a piece of bread, put sliced pickles on it, add a couple of slices of tomato and broil it for a few minutes. Pile some grated cheese on top of the broiled tomato.

At this time, lay a topper (that's another piece of bread) in the broiler so it will toast on one side, and as soon as the grated cheese melts, put the topper on. . .toasted side down. Easier to eat! It's marvelous.

-:-

HERE ARE some variations you can use with cooked, leftover sausage, ham or breakfast bacon. If you have only one or two pieces of bacon, cut them up and sprinkle the pieces over the tomato. Just cook under broiler with everything except the cheese. Then toss the finely grated cheese on top!

Another thing I have found is that the grated cheese makes a wonderful cold lunch for those who carry lunches.

Here's how to do it:

Put mustard, butter (I use oleo) or mayonnaise on your bread, add a piece of lettuce, then add that frozen grated cheese and pile it high! By the time noon comes, the cheese is thawed. Oh, it's so different. The sandwich will stand up twice as high. It's light, puffy and invigorating. . . nothing like a plain slice of cheese.

And. . . grated cheese goes much further. . . no matter what brand you buy.

Try it.

Finishing Of Furniture Seen Matter Of Taste

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

To fill the open pores of mahogany, walnut and oak is apparently of considerable concern to many persons who want to finish pieces of furniture made of those woods.

Most letter writers seem to have the feeling that there is some pat reply that will satisfy everyone. There isn't.

As with almost everything else in the wood - finishing area, it's a matter of taste. If you want an absolutely smooth surface for the finishing coat, then such woods require the application of paste wood filler. But if you like the textured, woodsy appearance of the open pores, then by all means forget about the filler.

Experience has taught us that mahogany, walnut and oak seem to need a filler if the final coat is to be glossy, no filler if it is to be dull or flat. This, however, is opinion. Form your own by looking at furniture in your friends' houses, department stores and furniture showrooms.

If you decide to use a paste wood filler, you will need some burlap, a clean cloth and a liquid thinner, usually either naptha or turpentine.

When buying the filler, read the directions on the container to determine which liquid should be used. Only enough liquid should be mixed with the paste to produce a combination that flows very slowly, like thick molasses.

Apply the filler with a brush, moving with the grain and in generous quantities. Immediately go over it again, this time across the grain and with light strokes.

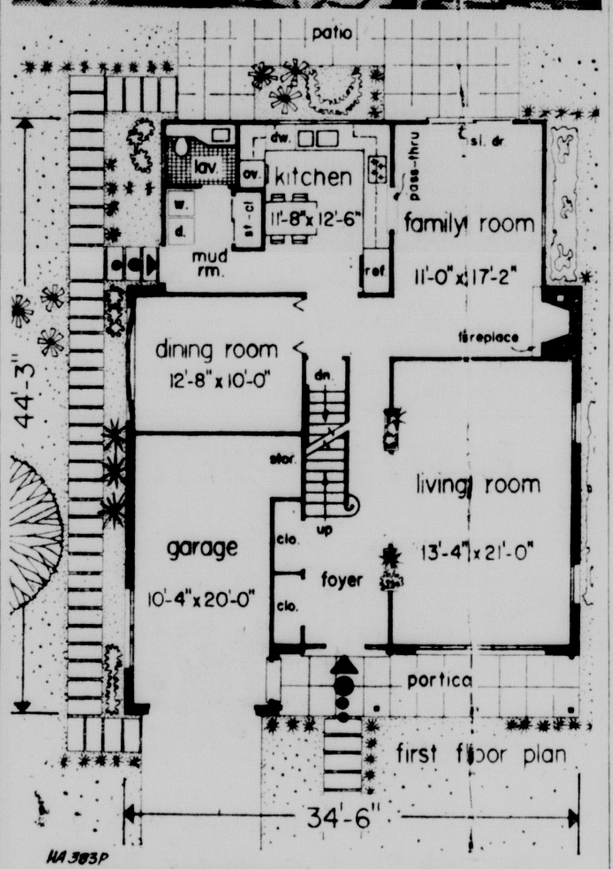
The filler quickly begins to lose its wet, shiny appearance —in a matter of a few minutes. Now take a piece of burlap and, using a circular motion but bearing down as you go across the grain, rub the surface.

The filler gets into the open pores mostly from the movement of the burlap across the grain. Finally, clean the surface with a dry cloth, moving in the direction of the grain and with a light touch.

Wait a few minutes and inspect the surface thoroughly, being certain there is plenty of light during the inspection. You will be able to tell quickly whether the pores of the wood have been filled properly. If not, repeat the entire operation, this time using a lighter mixture.

When the filler has dried thoroughly, preferably a day or two, seal it in before applying the finishing coats. The sealer can be thinned shellac or any similar product recommended by your dealer.

In addition to mahogany, walnut and oak, some of the woods which have open pores are chestnut, hickory, rosewood, ash, elm, butternut, satinwood and locust.



CHARMING, TRADITIONAL two-story design, Plan HA-383P, is created for those who are faced with high land costs. The plan is a marvolously compact square (1,095 square feet) which enables construction on a 50-foot lot and results in less perimeter which in turn means less materials, less insulation and less heating. The main entrance is via a sheltered front portico which leads into a spacious foyer. There is a formal dining room, as well as work and family area and living room on the ground floor. Located on the second floor are four bedrooms and two full baths. Architect is Samuel Paul, 89-30 161 St., Jamaica, N. Y.

Spray Paint Revives Metal Kitchen Cabinets

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Rejuvenate your metal kitchen cabinets — with paint. It's almost the last thing one thinks of doing, but it works.

One woman thought of having her metal doors and cabinet drawers covered with everything from wallpaper to burlap—not very practical considering the large amount of use these cabinet doors and drawers get.

Then one day at the suggestion of a friend she called a spray painter. The price wasn't steep, considering he used a baking method of painting, but he couldn't do the work for quite a while. Then too, doors had to be removed and delivered to him.

—:—

WELL, IF we're going to do all that, reasoned the woman's husband, why not spray paint the doors ourselves. We'll try one, if it doesn't work, we'll take all the doors to the experts.

Typical do-it-yourselfers, they experimented right on a door, instead of on a piece of metal. But, it worked. The paint went on so smoothly, they couldn't believe their eyes.

First, they removed the doors and the metal door grasp, then they sanded all rough and worn places, washed the doors, removing grease and dirt.

The first door was not so smooth as the others, and they've considered redoing it, but the part that ran a wee bit is not so noticeable in the light cast on that cabinet, so they are not worrying about it.

The warm sunny yellow color they chose has livened up their cold blue - and - white color scheme considerably. Some of the blue — tile on walls — must remain, but it doesn't clash with the pale yellow.

THEIR ORIGINAL idea was to repaint the cabinets in white, but an interior designer suggested they reconsider.

White, he pointed out, can be many shades from blue-white to deep ivory, and unless all cabinets and appliances were being painted, the contrasts would be too great.

They are now thinking about spraying refrigerator door and dishwasher front. But neither appliance really needs it. The white looks good with the yellow and they can skip the other doors if they want.

The cost of the spray brought each door refinishing job to about 50 cents, a reasonable investment, they figure.

So overwhelmed with the effect is the lady of the house that she has decided to make a stencil of a flower, sort of a stylized zinnia, to put on the door of each top cabinet.

The idea came originally as a plan to cover up the one door that had the slight defect, but now that she has given it some thought, she has been carried away. She visualizes a tall zinnia with sea-blue stem and coral-pink petals. If she were a better artist, she says, she'd cover all the doors with little flowers — zinnias, daisies, anemones and so on.

Where else does one need giddiness than in the kitchen, she says, and it's almost the last you'll ever find it.

Even if one starts off with colored appliances, they are bound to be static looking, she points out.

She plans to keep whatever art she applies away from the section where one opens the door. And when she gets tired of the color of the kitchen doors, she'll just redo them in a new color and design.

Great Lakes Parley Opens On Pollution

CLEVELAND (AP) — Governors of three states and representatives from five others are among those joining today in a "working conference" on what is being done and what can be done about pollution in the Great Lakes.

Scheduled to attend the conference called by Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes were Govs. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York and George W. Romney of Michigan.

Rhodes also invited governors of Pennsylvania, Illinois, Indiana, Minnesota and Wisconsin, as well as the premiers of the Canadian provinces of Ontario and Quebec and the U. S. secretary of health, education and welfare. Most indicated they would send representatives.

The sessions are not open to the public, but Rhodes announced on the eve of the conference that he would call for "accelerated enforcement action by the individual states" to halt lake pollution.

He listed these purposes of the one-day meeting:

To determine what studies are being made and who is making them; to find out what is being done by the state, industry and others; to determine what governmental action is needed; to learn about the programs of the public health service, the Great Lakes Commission, and the International Joint Commission, and to provide new guidance in efforts to protect the lakes as a natural resource.

Tips Offered On Firm Base For A Garage

Question: How deep should the foundation be for a garage? Also, how thick should it be? I will be using poured concrete.

Answer: The depth and thickness of concrete foundations differ around the country. Check with local authorities.

In some areas, the base or footing of the foundation must be considerably wider than the upper part. Still further, some local regulations require certain proportions of cement, sand and aggregate.

Example. One man who recently built a garage had to have a foundation at least 36 inches deep, with a general thickness of 8 inches but a footing thickness of 16 inches. And he had to use what is called a 1:2:3 mix; that is, one part of cement, two parts of sand and three parts of coarse aggregate. For a foundation, you probably will be hiring a concrete company which delivers the mix in the proper proportions for a garage in that area.

★ ★ ★

Question: I recently saw a brief note about a new electric radiant heating system which rolls on the ceiling like wallpaper. Can you tell me something about it?

Answer: It's a flexible material only 1-16th of an inch thick, consisting of two outer layers of vinyl and a filling of nylon net. The net is interwoven with thread-thin resistance wiring.

Special mastic is applied to the ceiling, after which the material is laid on. The electrical connection is made through lead wires attached to the back of the panels, holes having previously been drilled in the ceiling to accommodate these wires, which are connected through a standard junction box.

The system has been approved by the Underwriters Labratories. However, it presently is being sold only in the Ohio area, the south-central states and California. Control of each room is possible through independent thermostats.

Triplet Boys Receive Eagle Scout Rankings

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Triplets 14 years old received Eagle Scout medals Sunday, an event rare in the history of Boy Scouts.

They are Everett, Charles and Keith Taraba, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Taraba. The father is an inspector for Trans World Airlines.

In a note of congratulations, Joseph A. Brunton Jr., chief Scout executvie, said: "Occasionally we have had twins and a brother, or three brothers, become Eagles together, but for triplets to receive their Eagles at the same time is very unusual."

Injured Pilot Rescued From Crash At Athens

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — James T. Artry, 47, of Chicago, pilot of a private plane that crashed Sunday near Athens, was listed in satisfactory condition today at University Hospital here.

Artry's Ryan Navion plane crashed while attempting to land at Ohio University Airport. Two students and a doctor who witnessed the crash pulled Artry from the burning wreckage and were credited by authorities with saving the man's life.

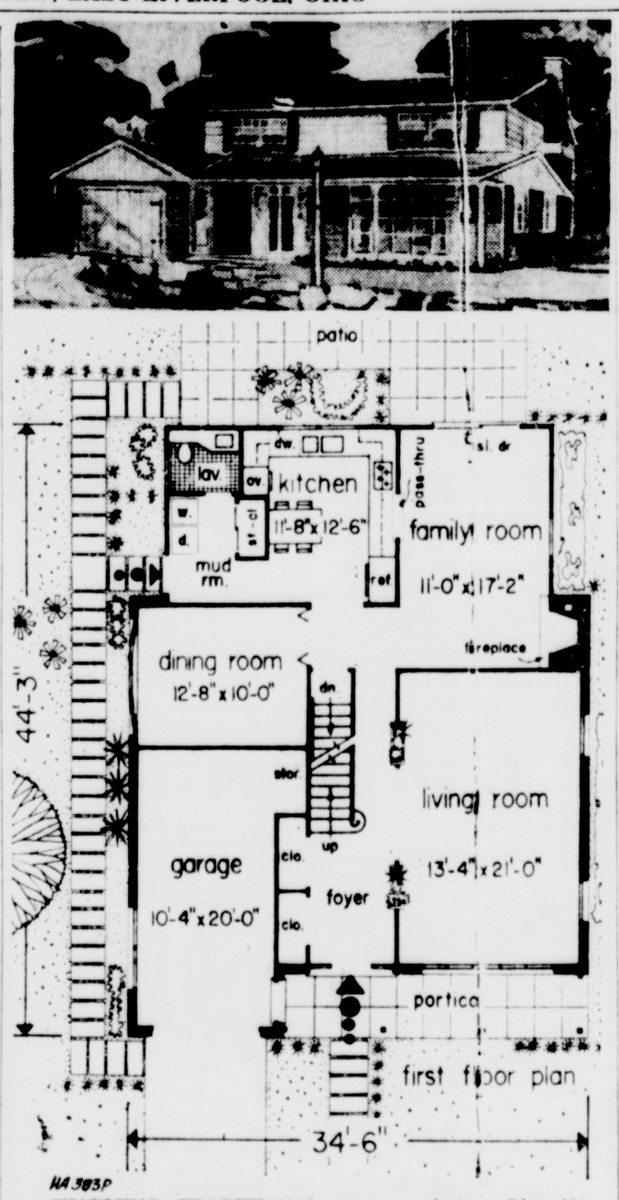
The filler quickly begins to lose its wet, shiny appearance —in a matter of a few minutes. Now take a piece of burlap and, using a circular motion but bearing down as you go across the grain, rub the surface.

The filler gets into the open pores mostly from the movement of the burlap across the grain. Finally, clean the surface with a dry cloth, moving in the direction of the grain and with a light touch.

Wait a few minutes and inspect the surface thoroughly, being certain there is plenty of light during the inspection. You will be able to tell quickly whether the pores of the wood have been filled properly. If not, repeat the entire operation, this time using a lighter mixture.

When the filler has dried thoroughly, preferably a day or two, seal it in before applying the finishing coats. The sealer can be thinned shellac or any similar product recommended by your dealer.

In addition to mahogany, walnut and oak, some of the woods which have open pores are chestnut, hickory, rosewood, ash, elm, butternut, satinwood and locust.



CHARMING, TRADITIONAL two-story design, Plan HA-383P, is created for those who are faced with high land costs. The plan is a marvolously compact square (1,095 square feet) which enables construction on a 50-foot lot and results in less perimeter which in turn means less materials, less insulation and less heating. The main entrance is via a sheltered front portico which leads into a spacious foyer. There is a formal dining room, as well as work and family area and living room on the ground floor. Located on the second floor are four bedrooms and two full baths. Architect is Samuel Paul, 89-30 161 St., Jamaica, N. Y.

Spray Paint Revives Metal Kitchen Cabinets

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Rejuvenate your metal kitchen cabinets — with paint. It's almost the last thing one thinks of doing, but it works.

One woman thought of having her metal doors and cabinet drawers covered with everything from wallpaper to burlap—not very practical considering the large amount of use these cabinet doors and drawers get.

Then one day at the suggestion of a friend she called a spray painter. The price wasn't steep, considering he used a baking method of painting, but he couldn't do the work for quite a while. Then too, doors had to be removed and delivered to him.

—:—

WELL, IF we're going to do all that, reasoned the woman's husband, why not spray paint the doors ourselves. We'll try one, if it doesn't work, we'll take all the doors to the experts.

Typical do-it-yourselfers, they experimented right on a door, instead of on a piece of metal. But, it worked. The paint went on so smoothly, they couldn't believe their eyes.

First, they removed the doors and the metal door grasp, then they sanded all rough and worn places, washed the doors, removing grease and dirt.

The first door was not so smooth as the others, and they've considered redoing it, but the part that ran a wee bit is not so noticeable in the light cast on that cabinet, so they are not worrying about it.

The warm sunny yellow color they chose has livened up their cold blue - and - white color scheme considerably. Some of the blue — tile on walls — must remain, but it doesn't clash with the pale yellow.

THEIR ORIGINAL idea was to repaint the cabinets in white, but an interior designer suggested they reconsider.

White, he pointed out, can be many shades from blue-white to deep ivory, and unless all cabinets and appliances were being painted, the contrasts would be too great.

They are now thinking about spraying refrigerator door and dishwasher front. But neither appliance really needs it. The white looks good with the yellow and they can skip the other doors if they want.

The cost of the spray brought each door refinishing job to about 50 cents, a reasonable investment, they figure.

So overwhelmed with the effect is the lady of the house that she has decided to make a stencil of a flower, sort of a stylized zinnia, to put on the door of each top cabinet.

The idea came originally as a plan to cover up the one door that had the slight defect, but now that she has given it some thought, she has been carried away. She visualizes a tall zinnia with sea-blue stem and coral-pink petals. If she were a better artist, she says, she'd cover all the doors with little flowers — zinnias, daisies, anemones and so on.

Where else does one need giddiness than in the kitchen, she says, and it's almost the last you'll ever find it.

Even if one starts off with colored appliances, they are bound to be static looking, she points out.

She plans to keep whatever art she applies away from the section where one opens the door. And when she gets tired of the color of the kitchen doors, she'll just redo them in a new color and design.

Great Lakes Parley Opens On Pollution

CLEVELAND (AP) — Governors of three states and representatives from five others are among those joining today in a "working conference" on what is being done and what can be done about pollution in the Great Lakes.

Scheduled to attend the conference called by Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes were Govs. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York and George W. Romney of Michigan.

Rhodes also invited governors of Pennsylvania, Illinois, Indiana, Minnesota and Wisconsin, as well as the premiers of the Canadian provinces of Ontario and Quebec and the U. S. secretary of health, education and welfare. Most indicated they would send representatives.

The sessions are not open to the public, but Rhodes announced on the eve of the conference that he would call for "accelerated enforcement action by the individual states" to halt lake pollution.

He listed these purposes of the one-day meeting:

To determine what studies are being made and who is making them; to find out what is being done by the state, industry and others; to determine what governmental action is needed; to learn about the programs of the public health service, the Great Lakes Commission, and the International Joint Commission, and to provide new guidance in efforts to protect the lakes as a natural resource.

Tips Offered On Firm Base For A Garage

Question: How deep should the foundation be for a garage? Also, how thick should it be? I will be using poured concrete.

Answer: The depth and thickness of concrete foundations differ around the country. Check with local authorities.

In some areas, the base or footing of the foundation must be considerably wider than the upper part. Still further, some local regulations require certain proportions of cement, sand and aggregate.

Example. One man who recently built a garage had to have a foundation at least 36 inches deep, with a general thickness of 8 inches but a footing thickness of 16 inches. And he had to use what is called a 1:2:3 mix; that is, one part of cement, two parts of sand and three parts of coarse aggregate. For a foundation, you probably will be hiring a concrete company which delivers the mix in the proper proportions for a garage in that area.

Question: I recently saw a brief note about a new electric radiant heating system which rolls on the ceiling like wallpaper. Can you tell me something about it?

Answer: It's a flexible material only 1-16th of an inch thick, consisting of two outer layers of vinyl and a filling of nylon net. The net is interwoven with thread-thin resistance wiring.

Special mastic is applied to the ceiling, after which the material is laid on. The electrical connection is made through lead wires attached to the back of the panels, holes having previously been drilled in the ceiling to accommodate these wires, which are connected through a standard junction box.

The system has been approved by the Underwriters Labratories. However, it presently is being sold only in the Ohio area, the south-central states and California. Control of each room is possible through independent thermostats.

Triplet Boys Receive Eagle Scout Rankings

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Triplets 14 years old received Eagle Scout medals Sunday, an event rare in the history of Boy Scouts.

They are Everett, Charles and Keith Taraba, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Taraba. The father is an inspector for Trans World Airlines.

In a note of congratulations, Joseph A. Brunton Jr., chief Scout executvie, said: "Occasionally we have had twins and a brother, or three brothers, become Eagles together, but for triplets to receive their Eagles at the same time is very unusual."

Injured Pilot Rescued From Crash At Athens

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — James T. Artry, 47, of Chicago, pilot of a private plane that crashed Sunday near Athens, was listed in satisfactory condition today at University Hospital here.

Artry's Ryan Navion plane crashed while attempting to land at Ohio University Airport. Two students and a doctor who witnessed the crash pulled Artry from the burning wreckage and were credited by authorities with saving the man's life.

Rugged Road Still Seen For Steel's Talks

CLEVELAND (AP)—The immediate impact of the extension of steel labor contracts appears to have been moderate, Steel Magazine said today.

"The steel order rate is holding at the slightly reduced pace of the last several weeks," the metalworking weekly said, "and the mills are in receipt of only a few order cancellations and shipment deferments.

"Pressure on the market has eased a little, but consumers take the position that the labor situation is still far from settled."

The magazine said the four-month extension is expected to set the stage for a surprisingly strong market well into the third quarter.

"The outlook for labor peace has been only slightly brightened," the trade journal added.

Steel said findings of the special study group of the President's Council of Economic Advisers do not appear to have smoothed the way to a quick settlement.

Ingot production in the week ended May 1 was 2,776,000 net tons, down slightly from the all-time high of 2,806,000 tons the preceding week, Steel said. It said last week's estimated output declined slightly also.

Ample Hot Water Proves Must For Spring Cleaning

Bad news. It's that time again — spring housecleaning. All the work you'll do will be worth it, though, but before you plunge in, make sure you have what it takes to do the job.

Since nearly every task will require ample hot water, a properly - sized heater is a must, says the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau of Chicago. It's the silent partner that makes spring housecleaning easier and more efficient.

Can your heater meet the demands you'll be placing upon it? An old unit gradually loses its efficiency, due to a yearly buildup of lime and calcium layers, depositing undesirable "insulation" on piping, coils and tank walls. This means that more fuel is needed to heat the water. And even then, you may not get the water as hot as you want it. Another problem with some heaters is rusty water, due to corrosion.

Besides just plain "growing old," many units become obsolete because they are not large enough to take care of a growing family.

The average hot water demand for a family of four is 130 gallons a day. In selecting a unit, you must be sure that it is big enough to meet special as well as everyday demands. An experienced plumbing contractor can advise you on what size heater your home should have.

Education Group In West Virginia Names President

CHARLESTON (AP) — Mrs. Beatrice Harvey of Lewisburg, a visiting teacher in Greenbrier County schools, was elected president Saturday of the 16,000-member West Virginia Education Association.

Her election to succeed C. P. Wells of Summersville took place at the concluding session of the WVEA delegate assembly's annual meeting. The assembly is the WVEA governing body.

Mrs. Harvey, who moves up from vice president, is a past president of the West Virginia Classroom Teachers Association and of the West Virginia Federation of Democratic Women's Clubs.

She is a graduate of West Virginia Wesleyan College and received a master's degree from West Virginia University.

Raymond S. Dispanet, Morgan County school superintendent, was elected to succeed Mrs. Harvey as WVEA vice president.

Room 'Reaches' Outdoors

Simply designed, floor-level deck takes this living room out into the sun. Hip-height wall protects privacy on deck and within room, is built of resawn western red cedar repeated from house exterior and continued indoors as paneling. Boards are tongue-and-groove, applied horizontally.

Feel like running outdoors to grab a lungful of fresh, spring air between washing dishes and making the beds? It's easy to do when you have indoor-outdoor rooms.

Every corner of the house can profit from an indoor-outdoor treatment, but the living room, family and dining rooms are especially good candidates.

EXTENDING THE living room outside, for example, increases not only the dimensions of the room and the dimensions of daily living, but also the pleasures of entertaining in the parlor.

When there's a crowd, guests can move in and out for a breath of fresh air as they like. The outdoor extension becomes an intimate conversation nook and often is the perfect site for a small card party on a warm spring day.

The simplest way to take the living room out into the sunshine is to build a small wood deck level with the floor. With Douglas fir 2-by-4s set on edge for deck boards, you need only an outer perimeter beam set on posts for support, in addition to the nailing plate against the house wall.

Of course a connecting glass wall is almost mandatory for the full indoor - outdoor treatment, but the ordinary sliding glass door unit isn't always the best choice for a formal living room. Instead, try a standard door, but with a glass center. Adjoining fixed glass panels can then be designed with handsome moulding relating to other moulding in the room.

TWO THINGS will insure privacy inside the indoor - outdoor living room: a hip - high wall around the deck and sheer darperies, which also may be needed for sun control.

The deck wall, or railing, can be designed in the same pattern as the house siding. If siding is painted, however, paint should be used only on the railing's exterior to avoid sun glare on the deck and the possibility of glare being reflected into the room. Deck boards and the inside of the railing can be left to weather naturally, or stained with a natural wood tone.

Many indoor-outdoor rooms take the theme one step further by repeating house siding for wall paneling within the room. This can be handsome indeed when resawn wood is used in a tongue-and-groove pattern applied either vertically or horizontally.

Woods like western red cedar are special favorites since their natural beauty of coloring and texture profits from a clear finish, and the sawn - textured cedar makes an outstanding background for today's rich fabrics and satiny wood furniture.

Funeral Mass Slated For Missing Heiress

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — A solemn requiem memorial Mass will be celebrated Wednesday at 10 a.m. for Eileen Jeffers Yager, who disappeared from her honeymoon yacht in coastal waters.

The former Miss Jeffers, 61, and heiress to a railroad fortune, wed Superior Court Judge Thomas C. Yager, 47, last Monday. The couple was returning to the mainland from Santa Catalina Island on a chartered yacht Thursday when she disappeared.

Yager told authorities he left his wife at the wheel and went below. When he returned to the deck she was gone. Coast Guard officials say they plan a routine investigation this week.

Covering For Water Pipes Erases Crawl Space Noise

By DOUGLAS TUOMEY

The home without a basement, but built above a crawl space, has become a standard method of house construction.

This has come about naturally because we no longer have to store 10 tons of coal in the cellar, nor do we any longer have barrels of potatoes and apples and hams and bacon hanging from the cellar beams. Oil and gas heating have done away with the first space need and the markets and canned foods have eliminated the balance.

There is much to be said for the basement-less house, but it also presents a few problems. Probably the most annoying of all is the noise so frequently noticed from the plumbing system.

When a house had a cellar under it, the large space absorbed any great reflection of sound, but in a crawl space the noise is confined to a low ceiling and practically any sound is heard above. The loudest of these is the rush of water through the house water main.

Also, there is the fact that most water pipes today are copper tubing, quite light and not nearly as thick as the old iron pipe formerly used. In some homes the noise reaches such proportions as to be a nuisance.

As a rule, the house water main comes up through the floor of the crawl space and up to the floor beams supporting the first floor, and is then hung from them. The sure cure for this noise is to cover the pipes completely with ordinary pipe-covering such as is used for covering heating pipes.

It has been estimated that this will reduce noise from the crawl space by as much as 40 to 60 per cent, depending upon how thorough a job has been done. It is also claimed that cheap, brown insulation, which can be bought by the roll, will do just as good a job.

Democrats Hold Seminar For Top Region Members

CINCINNATI (AP) — National Democratic Party figures and members of the exclusive "President's Club" gathered at a country estate today for a "grass roots" seminar of foreign and domestic policies of the Johnson Administration.

More than 300 Democrats, headed by Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, met at the country home of Dr. Joseph Link, Xavier University business professor and former assistant ambassador to Korea.

Humphrey was to arrive in Cincinnati at 11 a.m. from Minneapolis, where he spent the weekend. He was to preside over the seminar from 1:30 to 4 p.m.

Dr. Link explained the meeting was for a "grass roots discussion of Viet Nam, Cuba, Russia, Dominican Republic and domestic affairs. We want to find out what the people are thinking."

Link said the seminar would be closed to newsmen, but the officials, which include cabinet members, senators, and governors, would meet with reporters afterwards. The meeting was for Democrats in Ohio, Kentucky and Indiana and was the second of its kind, Link said. He said the first was held by the Kennedy family in New York, and others are planned for the South and West.

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Raymond Burr, television's Perry Mason, left Bangkok Sunday for South Viet Nam after three days of visiting U.S. troops in Thailand.

It was his first visit to Thailand since visiting the country with his father when he was 12 years old.

Burr plans to "shake as many hands as possible and say hello" to U.S. troops in Viet Nam for about six weeks.

Funeral Mass Slated For Missing Heiress

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — A solemn requiem memorial Mass will be celebrated Wednesday at 10 a.m. for Eileen Jeffers Yager, who disappeared from her honeymoon yacht in coastal waters.

The former Miss Jeffers, 61, and heiress to a railroad fortune, wed Superior Court Judge Thomas C. Yager, 47, last Monday. The couple was returning to the mainland from Santa Catalina Island on a chartered yacht Thursday when she disappeared.

Yager told authorities he left his wife at the wheel and went below. When he returned to the deck she was gone. Coast Guard officials say they plan a routine investigation this week.

Covering For Water Pipes Erases Crawl Space Noise

By DOUGLAS TUOMEY

The home without a basement, but built above a crawl space, has become a standard method of house construction.

This has come about naturally because we no longer have to store 10 tons of coal in the cellar, nor do we any longer have barrels of potatoes and apples and hams and bacon hanging from the cellar beams. Oil and gas heating have done away with the first space need and the markets and canned foods have eliminated the balance.

There is much to be said for the basement-less house, but it also presents a few problems. Probably the most annoying of all is the noise so frequently noticed from the plumbing system.

When a house had a cellar under it, the large space absorbed any great reflection of sound, but in a crawl space the noise is confined to a low ceiling and practically any sound is heard above. The loudest of these is the rush of water through the house water main.

Also, there is the fact that most water pipes today are copper tubing, quite light and not nearly as thick as the old iron pipe formerly used. In some homes the noise reaches such proportions as to be a nuisance.

As a rule, the house water main comes up through the floor of the crawl space and up to the floor beams supporting the first floor, and is then hung from them. The sure cure for this noise is to cover the pipes completely with ordinary pipe-covering such as is used for covering heating pipes.

It has been estimated that this will reduce noise from the crawl space by as much as 40 to 60 per cent, depending upon how thorough a job has been done. It is also claimed that cheap, brown insulation, which can be bought by the roll, will do just as good a job.

Democrats Hold Seminar For Top Region Members

CINCINNATI (AP) — National Democratic Party figures and members of the exclusive "President's Club" gathered at a country estate today for a "grass roots" seminar of foreign and domestic policies of the Johnson Administration.

More than 300 Democrats, headed by Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, met at the country home of Dr. Joseph Link, Xavier University business professor and former assistant ambassador to Korea.

Humphrey was to arrive in Cincinnati at 11 a.m. from Minneapolis, where he spent the weekend. He was to preside over the seminar from 1:30 to 4 p.m.

Dr. Link explained the meeting was for a "grass roots discussion of Viet Nam, Cuba, Russia, Dominican Republic and domestic affairs. We want to find out what the people are thinking."

Link said the seminar would be closed to newsmen, but the officials, which include cabinet members, senators, and governors, would meet with reporters afterwards. The meeting was for Democrats in Ohio, Kentucky and Indiana and was the second of its kind, Link said. He said the first was held by the Kennedy family in New York, and others are planned for the South and West.

Driver Pays Costs In Case

Edward R. Coursey, 24, of California, Pa., an instructor at California State Teachers College, was ordered today by Municipal Judge Samuel Chertoff to pay costs on a charge of operating his car with 1964 license plates.

He was cited Sunday at 11:25 a. m. on W. 3rd St. by Patrolmen Orin Smith and Paul Burson. Coursey explained to officers he was using the 1964 plates because he cannot obtain current Pennsylvania plates without a Pennsylvania title.

A court suit has been instituted in Pennsylvania because he is objecting to paying the 5 per cent sales tax on the car, Coursey told officers.

Robert Ira Bayer of Calcutta is due for a hearing Thursday on a charge of passing without the assured clear distance. The hearing had been scheduled today but was postponed at his request.

He was cited May 1 after an accident on County Rd. 424 (old Routes 7 and 30) in California Hollow.

William Kempf, 10 Church St., Salineville, is scheduled to appear Friday on a charge of speeding 50 miles an hour in a 35-mile zone. He was cited at 5:45 a. m. Friday on Route 7 by the State Highway Patrol.

A city man's chauffeur's license was detained by Judge Chertoff today until he secures a photo to be attached to the permit as required by state law.

Gail P. Freeman, 830 Avondale St., was cited Sunday at 1:05 p. m. on the city freeway by Patrolmen Smith and Burson.

Freeman told the court he had lost the original chauffeur's license but hadn't attached the new photo. The duplicate also had not been signed, police said.

Key Bills Due Vote In Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Bills involving teen-age voting, train crews and mass transportation are up for action as the Ohio Legislature begins what shapes up as one of the busiest weeks of the session.

Votes are slated in the House Tuesday on measures to lower the voting age from 21 to 19 and to create regional transit authorities to deal with problems of mass transportation.

The upper chamber is to vote at the same time on a measure reducing to four the number of crewmen required on through freight and yard switch engines. Present law requires five, an engineer, fireman, conductor and two helpers.

The lawmakers return to the capitol tonight to start their 17th week of work. Both chambers face heavy committee schedules in addition to daily floor sessions.

Rep. Ralph E. Fisher, R-Wayne, chairman of the House Finance Committee, said he expects to introduce this week the final appropriations bill of the session. It would take care of sundry claims against the state, which under the constitution cannot be sued for damages.

Fisher said the amount has not been determined.

Action is expected by the same committee Tuesday on the capital improvements appropriations bill, trimmed from $185 million to about $170 million, Fisher said.

Fisher's committee is slated to vote Tuesday on the school lobby's initiated bill to raise the state sales tax from three to four per cent to provide an additional $116 million a year for public education.

The vote will be only on the tax part of the measure and not on foundation program increases called for in the bill. The GOP - controlled Finance Committee is expected to reject the tax provisions, sending the measure back to the Eduction Committee in a move that virtually would kill it.

Reports circulated today that the Senate Rules Committee is ready to spring "fair housing" legislation which it bottled up more than a month ago. The watered-down proposal would ban discrimination in public housing but offer exemptions for owner-occupied dwellings up to four units.

Other legislative developments this week could include a bipartisan huddle on a reapportionment plan to replace the one defeated in the May 4 primary election.

Dominican Rain

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ Showers May Serve As Good Omen

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — Teeming rain drenched Santo Domingo today, and people even grasped at the fact of the rain in forlorn hope for a good omen.

The downpour broke one of the worst droughts in recent memory. There are those who say the lack of rain had something to do with exploding the time bomb of rebellion here.

Outside Santo Domingo, the rest of this little Caribbean country is quiet. There have been only occasional disorders elsewhere. The Dominican Republic's second city, Santiago, is reported back almost to its normal workaday pace.

The capital, the nation's political heart, is an armed camp divided into sectors controlled by rebels who call themselves constitutionalists and American soldiers and Marines who are here on what is advertised as a mission to keep the peace.

Somewhere in between are the forces controlled by a new junta whose members are trying to look attractive to the constitutionalist rebels while threatening to launch an all-out attack against them.

The United States, one hears, would deplore such an attack by the new junta. Yet it was the United States whose massive military intervention here prevented the rebels from taking over the country and eliminating those represented in the new junta.

The United States brought troops here with the announced purpose of protecting American civilians. The U.S. government also suspects that Communists and Castroites have moved into commanding positions among the constitutionalist rebels and has been exhibiting determination to "prevent another Cuba."

At this moment, the United States represents itself in the Dominican Republic as an agent of the Organization of American States with the mission to keep the peace and thus unable to take sides. But the exchange of casualties is with the rebel side, and the sniper's bullets — often so professionally directed as to suggest careful training in the Havana style — comes from the rebel side.

The rain beats down on Marines in an open field, shouting "Gung ho" in high spirits as they fill sandbags for emplacements for a battery of six 105mm howitzers, a small part of the enormous amount of military hardware brought in to keep the peace. The downpour has turned what was dry red dust around them into a sea of reddish mud. The Marines are undismayed by the discomfort.

In the streets of Santo Domingo a corridor is held by American forces helped by a few of what are called loyalist Dominican soldiers. They are loyal to whatever government is in power. Poncho-clad U.S. military police direct traffic, often deferring to the local cars while holding up military traffic.

In a word, everything is confusion. Nobody knows what is going to happen next. Perhaps the rain has been the good omen some thought it to be.

The drought had been bad. The Dominican Republic leans heavily on four crops — sugar, cacao, coffee and bananas — and all have been in deep trouble. The drought raised the frustration level. Dominicans had been fighting with Dominicans before the explosion of April 24. Water had been scarce — even drinking water — and people had been snapping at one another. Now perhaps the drought is broken and now, perhaps, the political storm might ease. But, as they say here, who knows?

It is not a matter of governments. Governments mean little in this tortured little island where most people regard one as not much better or worse than another.

No government ever has been popular in the Dominican Republic and no government is likely to be. The history of this island is too mixed up with greed, corruption and poverty for that.

When the latest coup or uprising or revolution — or whatever it was — broke on April 24, there were shouts of jubilation in the streets. That has happened before. It happened when the Trujillo dictatorship fell. It happened when Juan Bosch was elected president in the first free elections since 1924. But governments come and governments are overthrown.

There is little difference to the man who must scratch out a precarious living no matter who sits in the National Palace.

In the heart of the city, where the slums are and where the shooting is heaviest, the faces in the streets are blank. They watch in a sort of stunned resignation at the display of American might which has suddenly descended on the island. They are neither friendly nor unfriendly faces. They just seem tired.

Yet where the concentration of U.S. forces is heaviest, there is almost a carnival atmosphere. The ever-present entrepreneur is doing a brisk roadside business with fruits and soft drinks. The Americans are cheered.

Nobody asks why this should be. It is just the Dominican Republic.

Driver Pays Costs In Case

Edward R. Coursey, 24, of California, Pa., an instructor at California State Teachers College, was ordered today by Municipal Judge Samuel Chertoff to pay costs on a charge of operating his car with 1964 license plates.

He was cited Sunday at 11:25 a. m. on W. 3rd St. by Patrolmen Orin Smith and Paul Burson. Coursey explained to officers he was using the 1964 plates because he cannot obtain current Pennsylvania plates without a Pennsylvania title.

A court suit has been instituted in Pennsylvania because he is objecting to paying the 5 per cent sales tax on the car, Coursey told officers.

Robert Ira Bayer of Calcutta is due for a hearing Thursday on a charge of passing without the assured clear distance. The hearing had been scheduled today but was postponed at his request.

He was cited May 1 after an accident on County Rd. 424 (old Routes 7 and 30) in California Hollow.

William Kempf, 10 Church St., Salineville, is scheduled to appear Friday on a charge of speeding 50 miles an hour in a 35-mile zone. He was cited at 5:45 a. m. Friday on Route 7 by the State Highway Patrol.

A city man's chauffeur's license was detained by Judge Chertoff today until he secures a photo to be attached to the permit as required by state law.

Gail P. Freeman, 830 Avondale St., was cited Sunday at 1:05 p. m. on the city freeway by Patrolmen Smith and Burson.

Freeman told the court he had lost the original chauffeur's license but hadn't attached the new photo. The duplicate also had not been signed, police said.

Key Bills Due Vote In Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Bills involving teen-age voting, train crews and mass transportation are up for action as the Ohio Legislature begins what shapes up as one of the busiest weeks of the session.

Votes are slated in the House Tuesday on measures to lower the voting age from 21 to 19 and to create regional transit authorities to deal with problems of mass transportation.

The upper chamber is to vote at the same time on a measure reducing to four the number of crewmen required on through freight and yard switch engines. Present law requires five, an engineer, fireman, conductor and two helpers.

The lawmakers return to the capitol tonight to start their 17th week of work. Both chambers face heavy committee schedules in addition to daily floor sessions.

Rep. Ralph E. Fisher, R-Wayne, chairman of the House Finance Committee, said he expects to introduce this week the final appropriations bill of the session. It would take care of sundry claims against the state, which under the constitution cannot be sued for damages.

Fisher said the amount has not been determined.

Action is expected by the same committee Tuesday on the capital improvements appropriations bill, trimmed from $185 million to about $170 million, Fisher said.

Fisher's committee is slated to vote Tuesday on the school lobby's initiated bill to raise the state sales tax from three to four per cent to provide an additional $116 million a year for public education.

The vote will be only on the tax part of the measure and not on foundation program increases called for in the bill. The GOP - controlled Finance Committee is expected to reject the tax provisions, sending the measure back to the Eduction Committee in a move that virtually would kill it.

Reports circulated today that the Senate Rules Committee is ready to spring "fair housing" legislation which it bottled up more than a month ago. The watered-down proposal would ban discrimination in public housing but offer exemptions for owner-occupied dwellings up to four units.

Other legislative developments this week could include a bipartisan huddle on a reapportionment plan to replace the one defeated in the May 4 primary election.

Dominican Rain

Showers May Serve As Good Omen

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — Teeming rain drenched Santo Domingo today, and people even grasped at the fact of the rain in forlorn hope for a good omen.

The downpour broke one of the worst droughts in recent memory. There are those who say the lack of rain had something to do with exploding the time bomb of rebellion here.

Outside Santo Domingo, the rest of this little Caribbean country is quiet. There have been only occasional disorders elsewhere. The Dominican Republic's second city, Santiago, is reported back almost to its normal workaday pace.

The capital, the nation's political heart, is an armed camp divided into sectors controlled by rebels who call themselves constitutionalists and American soldiers and Marines who are here on what is advertised as a mission to keep the peace.

Somewhere in between are the forces controlled by a new junta whose members are trying to look attractive to the constitutionalist rebels while threatening to launch an all-out attack against them.

The United States, one hears, would deplore such an attack by the new junta. Yet it was the United States whose massive military intervention here prevented the rebels from taking over the country and eliminating those represented in the new junta.

The United States brought troops here with the announced purpose of protecting American civilians. The U.S. government also suspects that Communists and Castroites have moved into commanding positions among the constitutionalist rebels and has been exhibiting determination to "prevent another Cuba."

At this moment, the United States represents itself in the Dominican Republic as an agent of the Organization of American States with the mission to keep the peace and thus unable to take sides. But the exchange of casualties is with the rebel side, and the sniper's bullets — often so professionally directed as to suggest careful training in the Havana style — comes from the rebel side.

The rain beats down on Marines in an open field, shouting "Gung ho" in high spirits as they fill sandbags for emplacements for a battery of six 105mm howitzers, a small part of the enormous amount of military hardware brought in to keep the peace. The downpour has turned what was dry red dust around them into a sea of reddish mud. The Marines are undismayed by the discomfort.

In the streets of Santo Domingo a corridor is held by American forces helped by a few of what are called loyalist Dominican soldiers. They are loyal to whatever government is in power. Poncho-clad U.S. military police direct traffic, often deferring to the local cars while holding up military traffic.

In a word, everything is confusion. Nobody knows what is going to happen next. Perhaps the rain has been the good omen some thought it to be.

The drought had been bad. The Dominican Republic leans heavily on four crops — sugar, cacao, coffee and bananas — and all have been in deep trouble. The drought raised the frustration level. Dominicans had been fighting with Dominicans before the explosion of April 24. Water had been scarce — even drinking water — and people had been snapping at one another. Now perhaps the drought is broken and now, perhaps, the political storm might ease. But, as they say here, who knows?

It is not a matter of governments. Governments mean little in this tortured little island where most people regard one as not much better or worse than another.

No government ever has been popular in the Dominican Republic and no government is likely to be. The history of this island is too mixed up with greed, corruption and poverty for that.

When the latest coup or uprising or revolution — or whatever it was — broke on April 24, there were shouts of jubilation in the streets. That has happened before. It happened when the Trujillo dictatorship fell. It happened when Juan Bosch was elected president in the first free elections since 1924. But governments come and governments are overthrown.

There is little difference to the man who must scratch out a precarious living no matter who sits in the National Palace.

In the heart of the city, where the slums are and where the shooting is heaviest, the faces in the streets are blank. They watch in a sort of stunned resignation at the display of American might which has suddenly descended on the island. They are neither friendly nor unfriendly faces. They just seem tired.

Yet where the concentration of U.S. forces is heaviest, there is almost a carnival atmosphere. The ever-present entrepreneur is doing a brisk roadside business with fruits and soft drinks. The Americans are cheered.

Nobody asks why this should be. It is just the Dominican Republic.

VOLKSWAGEN

1965 used, has 4276 miles, just like new and still carries unused new car warranty. Drive a Volkswagen and save $ $ $, in every way every day. For instance no antifreeze, it's air cooled at 30° below zero. After your Volkswagen has been standing out all night it starts immediately. Can't boil (no water) air cooled. Gas station attendants would be lonely people if every one owned a Volkswagen for they will run up to 400 miles on a tank full of gas or up to 42 miles per gallon on regular and use no oil between changes. Holds only 5 3/10 pints of the best oil, no throw away filter at $3.25 just thoroughly cleaned and replaced. Up to 100,000 miles on tires if properly inflated and rotated. Low, low upkeep, no water pump, no universal joints, drive shaft, etc. or ½ the parts of the V-8 such as 4 cylinder 4 stroke rear engine, only 4 spark plugs, oilless generator, oil bath air cleaner, no throw away, only clean and replace. Why don't you take advantage of a car with little or no obsolescence, just constant improvements, 1965 Volkswagen has a heater, radio, turn signals, dual padded sun visors, hand grip windshield washer, increased vision all around by 15%, new wiper system, bigger brake cylinder means less pressure on pedal. steering system is sealed. Requires no lubrication, new heater controls and bigger heater, warms up quicker when engine is cold. Sun visor can be pivoted from side to side, back seat passenger has more leg room, also back seat folds down to give you 17.7 cubic foot luggage compartment big enough for a couple of trunks. Many, many more improvements since 1952 at no extra $ $ $ to you. Think of it and what hasn't gone sky high since 1952. Not Volkswagen still only $1595 P.O.E. and all for no money down on any model. Just good credit, up to 48 months if you qualify. It operates for a penny a mile. Just compare anywhere dollar for dollar and you get so much more for so little. If you can afford $1.00 per day you cannot afford not to own a Volkswagen (definition THE PEOPLE'S CAR). Ask yourself why you own a costly car when a Volkswagen does it so economically and resale is so very very high and on some cars have so much depreciation in one year it would pay for a Volkswagen. Stop and ask the man or woman who owns one or your neighbor how he likes his Volkswagen and how much it costs to operate. Then come in and see one of our most courteous salesmen and make his prove it. Ride it — Drive it — and see for yourself the greatest surprise you have had since TV, at Beaver Valley Auto Sales, Inc.

Dear Dodge Boys:

How can you sell a fine car like the Polara at such a low price and still make any money?

How The Dodge Boys Do It Is Their Secret.

Polara looks like it should cost hundreds of dollars more than it does, but it is priced right down with Galaxie and Impala and gives more car for the money.

The price surprise of 1965- DODGE POLARA
See it now at your Dodge Boys showroom

You'll also be pleasantly surprised at the low price of the Dart and Coronet.

For instance no antifreeze, it's air cooled at 30° below zero. After your Volkswagen has been standing out all night it starts immediately. Can't boil (no water) air cooled. Gas station attendants would be lonely people if every one owned a Volkswagen for they will run up to 400 miles on a tank full of gas or up to 42 miles per gallon on regular and use no oil between changes. Holds only 5 3/10 pints of the best oil, no throw away filter at $3.25 just thoroughly cleaned and replaced. Up to 100,000 miles on tires if properly inflated and rotated. Low, low upkeep, no water pump, no universal joints, drive shaft, etc. or ½ the parts of the V-8 such as 4 cylinder 4 stroke rear engine, only 4 spark plugs, oilless generator, oil bath air cleaner, no throw away, only clean and replace. Why don't you take advantage of a car with little or no obsolescence, just constant improvements, 1965 Volkswagen has a heater, radio, turn signals, dual padded sun visors, hand grip windshield washer, increased vision all around by 15%, new wiper system, bigger brake cylinder means less pressure on pedal, steering system is sealed. Requires no lubrication, new heater controls and bigger heater, warms up quicker when engine is cold. Sun visor can be pivoted from side to side, back seat passenger has more leg room, also back seat folds down to give you 17.7 cubic foot luggage compartment big enough for a couple of trunks. Many, many more improvements since 1952 at no extra $ $ $ to you. Think of it and what hasn't gone sky high since 1952. Not Volkswagen still only $1595 P.O.E. and all for no money down on any model. Just good credit, up to 48 months if you qualify. It operates for a penny a mile. Just compare anywhere dollar for dollar and you get so much more for so little. If you can afford $1.00 per day you cannot afford not to own a Volkswagen (definition THE PEOPLE'S CAR). Ask yourself why you own a costly car when a Volkswagen does it so economically and resale is so very very high and on some cars have so much depreciation in one year it would pay for a Volkswagen. Stop and ask the man or woman who owns one or your neighbor how he likes his Volkswagen and how much it costs to operate. Then come in and see one of our most courteous salesmen and make his prove it. Ride it — Drive it — and see for yourself the greatest surprise you have had since TV, at

WORLD MAPS

QUESTION: Who made the first world maps?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: Crude maps were made in ancient times, such as the clay tablet in upper left, dating from 2300 B.C. Its rough marks indicated a wealthy man's estate. But the peoples of the first civilizations had little knowledge of what lay beyond their borders and lacked accurate instruments to determine the location of places, with the result that early maps were vague and confused. The first map to show the world with at least some positions scientifically located was made by the Greek Ptolemy about 150 A.D. and was used for hundreds of years thereafter. Ptolemy's map suggested that the earth was round, to be connected by some strange, unknown land. It was not until nearly 1500 that the idea of the earth as a full sphere became accepted. Even then, Martin Behaim, who drew the first globe map in 1492, made a curious mistake: he greatly underestimated the size of that part lying between Europe and the East Indies. It looked to be a short sail from Spain to the riches of the East. Judging by what soon happened, however, perhaps we owe a great debt to Behaim and his funny little globe!

★ ★ ★

FOR YOU TO DO: Try to understand the meaning of the last sentence above, checking with the two sides of Behaim's globe in the picture. (Because the trip to the east looked so short, Columbus may have decided to try it—and incidentally to stumble on the huge continent Behaim had left out — the continent later to be known as America!

Census Bureau Survey Lists Gains For Service Business

Columbiana County's 705 service establishments had total receipts of $10.0 million in 1963, an increase of 4 percent from 1958, according to a report of the 1963 Census of Business just released by the U.S. Bureau of the Census.

The last previous Census of Business covered operations during 1958.

The service trades in the Census of Business included those providing: personal services to individuals: miscellaneous business services: auto repair and other auto services: and other repair services. Also included were motion picture production and distribution businesses; motion picture theatres; other amusement and recreation services, and hotels and motels.

In the county there were 322 personal service establishments reporting 1963 receipts of $3.8 million. Among the other selected services included in the census were: auto repair shops with receipts of $1.5 million; motion picture theatres with receipts of $281,000; other amusement, recreation services with receipts of $1.2 million; and hotels, motels, camps with receipts of $536,000.

The selected service trade establishments in the county employed 807 persons (exclusive of proprietors) and had a payroll for the year of $2.4 million. The state as a whole included 55,453 establishments with receipts of $1,932.3 million.

The Bureau of the Census report: Selected Services, Ohio 1963 Census of Business, from which the data was taken, may be purchased from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C., 20402 and at U.S. Department of Commerce field offices for 65 cents.

CLEVELAND (AP) — Detectives theorize that an East Side woman found beaten to death in her apartment building may have been attacked by a robber who posed as a prospective tenant.

Woman's Slayer May Have Posed As Tenant

CLEVELAND (AP) — Detectives theorize that an East Side woman found beaten to death in her apartment building may have been attacked by a robber who posed as a prospective tenant.

The body of Mrs. Etta Baulknight, 58, was found Saturday night in a suite which had been vacant for only a few days.

The victim's sister, Mrs. Susan Merritt, 76, apparently was beaten by the same assailant. Mrs. Marritt was listed in poor condition at Lakeside Hospital. Police have been unable to question her.
